Summit Report

Polaris Set For Britain

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to have agreed tentatively to supply Polaris missiles to Britain provided an independent British striking force eventually becomes part of the North Atlantic alliance nuclear deterrent. The Polaris would take the place of the disputed Skybolt.

Diplomatic informants said Thursday that the main elements of an accord hammered out in 14 hours or more of the Nassau little summit conference, which will run into an additional day today.

HIGHLY PLEASED

Prime Minister Macmillan was reported as highly pleased with the solution of a dispute that has frayed U.S.-British relations.

Macmillan has called a cabinet meeting in London today to consider the proposed deal and advise him on it.

Macmillan was represented as pleased with Kennedy's explanation of the problems of Skybolt development by contrast with the well-proven Polaris.

BETTER MISSILE

The Polaris is a mobile missile capable of being fired from submarines or other moving platforms, and its range is 1,000 miles.

In effect, the British position now is that Macmillan has the opportunity to obtain from the United States a much better missile than the Skybolt program could have produced.

Diefenbaker Off Today For Nassau

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker leaves for Nassau this morning for talks on "international affairs and the Common Market" with British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is due to arrive in Nassau at the closing hour of the Kennedy-Macmillan conference, will fly to the Bahamas with his wife and a small group of officials on a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

They will drive to Ball Hall, the Nassau home of Mrs. W. B. Hall of Montreal and Mr. Macmillan's official residence during the conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker will lunch and enjoy what he called "informal talks" with Kennedy and Macmillan before his portion of the discussion begins.

How Much Influence Is Felt?

By JURGEN HESSE
Fifth of a Series

Clergymen and laymen in Victoria are divided over the degree of influence exerted by churches in the Canada of 1962.

Here is a sample of opinions:

• "All our activities are character-building," says Rev. Laura Butler of Metropolitan United Church, speaking for herself and six United ministers she interviewed.

• "Churches exert a tremendous influence, but not as a pressure group," says Rev. J. L. W. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

• "The influence lessens, there's a relaxation," says Rev. R. D. Holmes, Central Baptist Church.

• "The Catholic Church is concerned primarily with the spiritual. In this sphere its influence is very great throughout Canada," says Rev. Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Cathedral, who for nine months administered the affairs of the diocese.

• "They are influential in a material, political and spiritual way, and all churches are combatting a wave of materialism," says Rev. William Hills of St. George's the Martyr Anglican Church.

• "The church today is more influential than ever on progress and on philosophy," says deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, an elder of First United Church for 16 years.

• "On moral problems the churches take an influence," says Dr. Roy Watson of Victoria University, a sociologist and ardent proponent of the Student Christian Movement.

• "One of the dangers of the church's influence is that children should make intellectual decisions of their own," says Prof. Tony Emery of Victoria University, a teacher of history and self-proclaimed agnostic.

• "There is no doubt that the federal government has taken into consideration the attitude of the Roman Catholic church," says Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization.

• "The influence of the churches in Canada still carries a great deal of weight," says Dr. Marian Sherman, a scientific humanist, 2901 Seaview Road.

It emerges very clearly from these answers that almost everyone asked had a different outlook on the extent of the church's influence and the

Backing Up Alibi

DICKINSON, N.D. (UPI)—A policeman saw a 15-year-old girl back up her car on a state highway, stop for a red light and continue backing up.

He said the girl told him she had put too many miles on the car and was trying to take them off before returning it to her parents.

Rocket Plane Tops Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X-15 rocket plane shot into space Thursday and returned safely from the highest altitude yet attempted with its big bottom fin removed.

Preliminary information indicated a top speed of 3,986 miles an hour and an altitude of 157,000 feet.

LOOK AHEAD

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said it was the first time the X-15 had gone high enough and fast enough without the ventral fin to meet conditions future spacecraft will encounter re-entering the atmosphere.

At the controls was test pilot Joseph A. Walker, who has reached 246,700 feet and 4,104 miles an hour with the ventral fin in place.

MAKES IT ROLL

The big fin was designed to increase the stubby-winged Sky Dart's stability in atmospheric flights, but broke for cause it to roll in re-entry from extreme altitudes.

Thursday's flight was the seventh in a series to analyze the X-15's performance without the fin. Some of these have gone as high as 140,000 feet.

43,000 FEET

The flight started with the X-15 dropping away from its B-52 carrier plane 43,000 feet over Mud Lake, Nev., 185 miles northeast of this desert research centre.

Parliament Adjourns

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy governor general, gave royal assent Thursday night in 13 bills, minutes before Parliament adjourned until Jan. 21. (See Page 23.)

The main measure that became law was a grant of $330,000,000 in interim supply to cover the government's day-to-day spending in January and also setting up the Atlantic development board and a Crown corporation in charge of the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal.

Postal Truck Robbed

BOSTON (AP)—A U.S. mail truck was robbed of registered mail Thursday night by three men after the truck driver was tricked by a man wearing a carrier's uniform.

William F. White, chief postal inspector for New England, said the thieves stole between $2,000 and $2,200 in cash.

The robbery occurred in the heavily-populated Dorchester district.

Driver John L. Sullivan, 63, told police he was pulling away from a sub-station when a man wearing a carrier's uniform approached.

"I took pity on him standing there in the cold and told him to hop in," Sullivan said. The temperature was about 16 above.

Sullivan said after he had driven about four blocks his passenger pulled a gun and ordered him to the side of the street.

Two other men jumped into the truck, Sullivan said, and three pouches of registered mail were taken.

The three drove away in a car.

New Bishop Installed

By JURGEN HESSE

Victoria's new Roman Catholic bishop, Most Rev. Remi Joseph De Roo, was installed in his diocese by Coadjutor-Archbishop Martin Johnson in a two-hour ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral last night.

For the many dignitaries and the congregation assembled Bishop De Roo had a sternly delivered message:

"One of the greatest challenges which faces us today... is to work and pray and sacrifice for the day when society realizes man without God is not fully man."

PIONEERS

"We must remain pioneers... ready to dedicate our every effort to the survival of lasting values—the spiritual," the bishop said.

Church and state, he said, are not meant to struggle against one another but to enhance and affect human society.

"It is not sufficient they (the laymen of the church) stand up and accept responsibility... but it is necessary they seek to develop spiritual culture," Bishop De Roo said.

WITH SOCIETY

Church is not against society, it is with society, he said. "To ignore the role of the church in society... is a form of self-debasement, of self-mutilation not far short of spiritual suicide."

Earlier in his address the bishop said: "I experience a most profound joy at being here in your midst—home at last..."

COLORFUL

The bishop spoke after his installation by Coadjutor-Archbishop Johnson of Vancouver who represented Archbishop W. M. Duke, unable to attend because of illness.

The ceremony unfolded with the solemn and colorful ritual of the Roman Catholic Church.

The procession of clergy and laity started at 7:30 p.m. at the bishop's residence, 740 View, into the cathedral.

Deadly Day

Air, Rail Crashes Kill 31

A bloody series of train wrecks and aircraft crashes yesterday left a trail of death, injury and ruin in several parts of the world.

At least 31 persons are dead and another 80 were injured.

In Guatemala, 18 died and 45 were injured when a speeding freight train roared into a standing passenger train.

In Florida, a Miami to New York passenger train crashed at 70 miles an hour into a truckload of oranges, wrecking the train and sending its two locomotives and 15 cars twisting along the rails. The lead locomotive and the truck caught fire.

At least three persons were killed and 15 were admitted to Okeechobee General Hospital, including a Montreal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Elliott. Ten or 15 others were treated in hospital and released.

HITS FARMHOUSE

On the island of Okinawa, a U.S. air force KB-30 tanker plane crashed into an Okinawan farmhouse, exploding into flames and killing 11 persons—all seven American crewmen and four Okinawans. Seven other Okinawans from the devastated house were injured.

As the plane approached Kaneda air force base en route from Yokota air force base in Japan, it was waved away on its first landing try. As it came in for the second approach, one engine failed, the aircraft dipped, sliced off a 35-foot power pole, and plunged into the house.

In Portland, Oregon, a U.S. National Guard jet fighter plane crashed in flames in a suburban Parkrose, setting outlying provinces.

two houses afire. No one was reported killed.

Sheriff's deputies said the two men aboard the F-105 plane bailed out and were found a quarter-mile from the crash.

The plane smashed between the houses, but everyone inside escaped the flames.

BURNED TO DEATH

In Brazil, finally, rescue workers reached the wreckage of a Brazilian airline Constellation deep in the Amazon jungles and found all 50 persons aboard burned to death.

Pan Air do Brasil, operators of the aircraft, said the plane crashed Dec. 14 approximately 25 miles from Manaus, its destination, about 800 miles up the Amazon River from Brazil's Atlantic coastline.

Dominicans Give Fiallo Early Lead

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Two of five presidential candidates fought for the lead last night in early returns from the Dominican Republic's first free elections since 1924.

The National Civic Union's Viriato Fiallo scored a 15,000-vote margin over Juan Bosch, candidate of the left-of-center Dominican Revolutionary Party, in a seesaw battle that appeared to pit the voting strength of the capital against outlying provinces.

Adventists Tell Sons They Must Go Jan. 3

HOPE (CP)—The radical Sons of Freedom Doukior sect, camped at a Seventh Day Adventists' site here, must leave by Jan. 3.

The Adventists delivered the ultimatum Thursday.

The Freedomites say, however, they have not found a new site but will leave even if they are forced to camp on the highway.

The camp has been the 1,300 Sons' home since Nov. 29 when the Adventists allowed them to use it after heavy rains forced them out of a village campsite.

Finishing Touches

Has Cuba Sealed Prisoner Deal?

HAVANA (UPI)—New York attorney James Donovan returned to Havana Thursday apparently to put the finishing touches on his deal with Premier Fidel Castro for the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Havana radio, a government transmitter, predicted the ransom talks between the two men would end "positively" at any moment. This impression was borne out by reports from New York that relatives of the prisoners in exile in New York were leaving for Miami to await their return.

AWAIT SUPPLIES

However, it did not seem likely any of the men will be released until Castro receives the first shipment of the $62,000,000 in food and medicine he demanded for their freedom. (See picture, Page 14.)

Reports from Miami said a 10,000-ton freighter chartered by the American Red Cross to deliver the merchandise to Cuba, was in Port Everglades, Fla., and ready to load.

Reports from Washington said the ship would sail for Cuba tomorrow night or early Saturday.

UN Adjourns

Only Total of 500 Fund Still to Be Decided

Only the actual total of this year's 500 Fund cheques remains to be decided. Generous Victorians have made sure that the 500 families most in need of assistance will not be forgotten.

Officials of The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund have been forced to extend the final closing hour for 1962.

So many donations came in yesterday — $2,834.18 was entered in the records—that officials decided to wait for today's morning mail before officially closing the fund.

The amazing one-day outpouring of generosity boosted the fund to $12,502.78 when counting ended for the day Thursday.

And with many known donations delayed by heavy Christmas mail, the total will go higher, possibly topping last year's record total.

So each cheque to the 500 impoverished families that Victoria wishes "Merry Christmas" through the fund should be at least $26.

One final event is still to take place for the benefit of the fund.

Victoria Gun Club holds its annual Christmas ham and turkey shoot at the Albert Head gun club grounds this Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 22 and 23.

Any and all shooters may take part in the day-long trap-shooting for Christmas food-stuffs.

First shots will be fired at 9 a.m. and continue to sundown.

Shooters will be matched by handicap and skill in the "squads" trying for each prize, and every "bang" means a boost for the 500 fund.

Despite the fact that the shoot won't be held until the fund is actually closed, the gun clubbers have decided to take a big chance.

They've donated a cheque for $400 to the fund already.

Part comes from proceeds of "Lucky Circle" turkey cards

still being sold in small stores and businesses throughout the area, and available at gun club grounds Saturday and Sunday.

The rest will come from the turkey shoot at the club.

Club officials are taking a chance on a heavy turnout at the turkey shoot Saturday and Sunday to bring their contribution up to the $400 mark.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Crown Thursday decided not to introduce a tape recording of a woman's conversation with a Roman Catholic priest as evidence in an extortion trial.

City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said the Crown is withdrawing the tape as a matter of public interest.

A deluge of protests from clergy of all denominations followed the Crown's attempt to introduce the tape in court Wednesday.

The case concerns Donald Lloyd, 26, and his wife Eleanor, 23, who are charged with attempting to extort $15,000 from a 77-year-old widow by threatening to kill her foster daughter.

Prosecutor Donald Morrison

had sought to introduce a tape recording which he said was made secretly while Mrs. Lloyd was talking to Rev. Aloysius Craven, a priest at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, in the office of Det. Insp. Ian McGregor of the police criminal investigation branch.

Defence counsel John Macey protested vigorously, saying the introduction hit at "the very foundations of religion."

Magistrate Gordon Scott adjourned the trial until Dec. 27 to give the defence a chance to prepare argument against admission of the tape.

The recording of a confidential conversation between a member of the clergy and someone seeking his aid was protested in several interviews.

Rev. H. I. Bader, former editor of the British Columbia Catholic, said:

"It's like trying to bug heaven or God himself. It's tampering with the conscience of the individual; there is a right of confidence between a person and God. It's little short of being sacrilegious."

Socred MLA Opposes Proposed Grant Boost

SALMON ARM (CP)—A Social Credit member of the legislature said Thursday he is opposed to Premier Bennett's plans to increase the homeowner grant to $100 from $50.

W. F. Jecoat said he would raise the matter at the next session of the legislature unless it is clarified before then.

Africans Sign Charter

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Sixteen African states signed a charter yesterday which, when ratified by the member states, will establish a framework for political, economic and cultural cooperation as a further step toward pan-African unity.

The ministers, assembled here to discuss details of their future co-operation, are members of the Monrovia group, comprising the states of former French Africa, plus Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Ethiopia and Liberia.

The charter would establish a permanent secretariat and provide for regular meetings of the heads of state and a common council of ministers.

Wanted at Once

RETIREMENT for Judge J. B. Clearhugh does not mean a cessation of active public performance. He has stepped down after 10 years' fine service on the County Court bench, but he will continue to pursue his efforts as chairman of Victoria College Council towards emancipation of the local institution as a degree-granting autonomous university.

It is reassuring that this should be so, for Judge Clearhugh has given steady leadership in the evolution of the college to this higher educational status.

There will be surprise that he should feel some disquiet about the culminating act of this change, the presentation to the legislature of the new charter governing and naming the college as an independent university. By this time the process should have become automatic.

There was disappointment a year ago when this presentation was delayed, but full expectation that the coming session would see the final stamp put on the University of Victoria.

It has been well-known of course that the parent body at Point Grey had viewed with dissent the move towards independent status and that UBC had been anxious to keep the Victoria institution under its control. Local opinion here has had to fight every step of the way towards autonomous status, backed by overwhelming public support. The buildings now going up on the Gordon Head campus provide ample proof of the desire and determination of Victorians that they should have their own university, unfettered by outside interference.

The new president of UBC, Dr. John Macdonald, stated after assuming office this past summer that he entirely favored the free independent operation of Victoria College as a degree-granting university, and this seemed to reverse the previous Point Grey policy. It was thus assumed that no further obstacles would be placed in Victoria's way.

It will be alarming, and in fact intolerable, if the atmosphere has changed again and influences are being brought to bear to block official recognition of the local institution as a full-fledged autonomous university. Nor should the report by Dr. Macdonald on higher learning in the province, particularly in view of the sentiments expressed by him on the subject of a Victoria university, provide any excuse for delaying further the implementation of the required charter.

The people of this area subscribed willingly and with enthusiasm more than $2,000,000 in pledge of their faith in the future of Victoria University, and they did so on the premise that it would be free from outside control. There will be severe repercussions if outside influence prevents this promise being kept.

The government is known to favor the autonomous establishment of Victoria University and is matching dollar for dollar the fund raised for this purpose. Nothing further should be allowed to delay its consummation.

The Victoria College Council should wait no longer but instead submit the bill it has prepared covering the new charter for introduction at the legislative session opening next month. Any further delay will not be acceptable to this community.

Good Choice, But . . .

THE APPOINTMENT OF Mr. Dennis Young to be successor to Mr. C. C. Wyatt as Victoria's city manager is eminently satisfactory in all ways but one. This is that the choice apparently was made without opportunity for others to compete on their merits for the position, which hardly seems the correct or fair procedure for filling a public post of such importance. The less so when to secure Mr. Young's services, city council has increased the salary.

Except for increasing the number and the quality of the aspirants who might have been induced to apply to become the new chief executive and principal adviser at city hall, the latter point is perhaps not of great consequence, for Mr. Wyatt has demonstrated repeatedly since he became Victoria's first manager that a good man in the job can save the city many times his salary, and it is not to be doubted that Mr. Young will do the same.

Nor is there even room for much doubt that in competition with other candidates Mr. Young would have been the successful contender. His qualifications as former comptroller-treasurer and assistant city manager of Victoria, his native knowledge of this community, his additional experience as treasurer and finance commissioner of Hamilton for the last two years, as well as the liking and respect he earned at city hall over a period of 10 years, fit him most admirably for the position.

It is difficult to think of more than one or two potential candidates who might have come anywhere close to him in contest for the job. But any who considered themselves able to fill the manager's place should have had an open chance to try for it.

At Vimy Ridge

IN THE Legionary a veteran tells of a visit he paid recently to the Canadian war memorial on Vimy Ridge. It brought him great satisfaction.

He stood at sunrise on the same spot as on that far-off Easter Monday morning. He noted the memorial's grandeur and the perfect condition of the surroundings, with trenches, dug-outs, etc., preserved as he knew them 45 years ago. In the nearby cemeteries, carefully tended, he saw the graves of many men with whom he had served.

The whole scene was one to fill him with pride and he willingly answered questions about the memorial from others seeking information.

Only one thing dismayed him; the guide who showed around the memorial's many visitors could not speak English to explain the significance of the Vimy memorial area.

Vimy is a historic name in modern Canadian annals; the massive monument on its ridge is the most moving of all overseas Canadian memorials. That part of French soil is for ever Canada.

It should be possible for federal authorities to remedy the lack noted by this veteran, and to ensure the availability of someone able to explain the shrine's history in the language most common to Canada and to most of those who visit the Vimy memorial.

Thinking Aloud

By TOM TAYLOR

THE tiger looked out at me from the pages of the Colonist and, being in the Christmas mood, I almost bade it good morning. It seemed familiar too, much as I had seen it or its counterpart in the Seattle zoo a few years back.

It was not smiling that day as I stood in front of it, apprehensively, in the covered arcade where the animals may be viewed through glass windows. No doubt the glass offered adequate protection against undue close acquaintance but I wondered nevertheless what would happen if it decided to launch its menacing bulk in my direction.

And the Bengal specimen that fascinated me seemed capable of cracking any mere window made of glass. It was a massive creature indeed.

The pictorial tiger was smileless too, and perhaps not without ample reason. Supposedly animals have thoughts like the people who entrap them and shut them up in cages, and one shouldn't expect a caged tiger to be over friendly to the strange species that delights in its capture. Even the accommodating area provided in the Seattle emporium scarcely equals the plains and jungle habitat that is its birthright.

The lion it is they call the king of beasts but looking as I did at the Bengal monarch I had my doubts. Certainly at least the tiger must be accorded the rank of queen and in beauty of appearance also I give it, her, the palm. The stripes alone supply the decor more suitable to the feminine sex, even if by some mischance of nature the tresses have been bestowed on the lion. Sometimes too, I believe, the tiger may outrank the lion in size, a circumstance not without equation in the human family, regal or otherwise, and when it comes to looks the lion is by comparison a pube.

It looks like a male, drab and unexciting.

It is the lion of course to which is attributed the noble mien which gives it the accolade of majesty, the calm superior lift of the head which suggests its supremacy, although the encyclopedia tells me that the nobility stops at the neckline and does not extend to its disposition. I am not anxious to prove this by personal experiment, even if Alan Moorehead in his account of its African habits assures me that the lion may sit at ease on a rock paying no attention to the lesser breeds around him.

These he could dispose of in the snuff of a moment, which is why, as Moorehead reports, the lion paces with head down in supreme confidence that no other beast, not even the elephant, would dare to attack him. There are no tigers in Africa, you see.

This is not to suggest that in mortal combat the king might bow to the queen, albeit in other spheres and at least in less physical ways the queen may sometimes prove to be paramount. I know nothing of their respective combatant qualities, except that the Seattle Bengal that stared me down through a glass window seemed well able to take care of itself anywhere and in any company. I should not care to be in the lion that stood in his, her, way.

And in those lion-tiger ring displays before the bidding of a whip the queen usually seems to be the more violently fickle of the two.

If need be, also, the tiger in static pose may be no less imperious than the lion. Even more haughtily may the queen held high, with a superciliousness, that, perhaps appropriately, belongs to the feminine kingdom. When it comes to looks a tiger can be excused its air of disdain.

And disdain no doubt it has of people who gawk at it through glass or photographic reproduction, so envious of its queenly air that they must put it in bondage.

As this correspondent predicted some months ago, but with less confidence than now, there is the strongest question that he will be able to obtain that general tax cut for 1963 to which he is committed. He can hardly do so, that is, unless he consents to reduce federal spending far below what his administration would think tolerable—unless, in short, he concedes to Congress an extraordinary degree of control over his budget proposals.

In both welfare and economic legislation it might be supposed that he will receive a somewhat more favorable hearing from the Senate than before, since the new Senate will be a trifle more Democratic in tone. This, however, cannot at best be more than a theoretical gain. For a more friendly general Senate attitude cannot in any circumstance compensate for the root fact that he has lost ground in the House, in more senses than one.

Not only will the new House be slightly more Republican than before, in the mere measure of numbers. Far more importantly, it will be conclusively more conservative—not excluding its Democratic majority—in terms of basic reality.

Lawrence of Arabia

The Fiction and the Facts

By A. W. LAWRENCE

PERHAPS no film can ever be true to a character taken from life, especially a life as remarkable and a character as complex as my brother's. And certainly no film, however good, can be true to a book, especially a long and complicated book such as "Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

The American author of a preliminary film synopsis, which followed "Seven Pillars" with extraordinary fidelity, wrote of his adaptation three years ago: "I had to take considerable liberties with the text—not only rearranging and telescoping events, but inventing scenes which never actually occurred."

The film that has eventually been made—from a script of a very different nature, by Robert Bolt—is, I think, far less closely related to the book, the rights of which I sold for the purpose, than was the play "Rosa," which Terence Rattigan wrote without needing or acquiring any rights.

Neither the play nor the film could have been produced without knowledge of the book, but each is an imaginative reconstruction of the story to suit a personal interpretation of the main character. The film, though, is above all a spectacle, in which skillful visual splendor and music sugarcoat the script's bitter treatment of character and events. I had reserved the power to prohibit use of the title, and exercised it when I saw how widely and consistently the final script diverged from the book.

The hundreds of British officers and other ranks who fought at one time or another in the Arab campaign are ignored: the film shows only the one lone Englishman in the desert, except for occasional visits by a superior officer (fictional), who usually disapproves. One civilian (really a composite figure) alone gives consistent support at GHQ, where, actually, the hard work of many officers enabled the campaign to succeed. Allenby is prepared to back the Arab's only to the point at which support might have political implications. The hero, therefore, carries more responsibility than in fact.

The film Lawrence has more than any one man's share of psychological aberrations, which are displayed by episodes that do not appear in the book and by distorted versions of some that do. So there are demonstrated: narcissism (in his first Arab robes he dances with his shadow), fan-

New Horror

Unkindly Light

By CASSANDRA

CARDINAL NEWMAN, the theological giant of the nineteenth century, had, among his great quiver of talents, an ability to write hymns that would make our Top-of-the-Pops kids look what they are—musical bubbles.

John Henry Newman wrote, among other religious "numbers," "If I may use the driving term, 'Lead Kindly Light' that has not only survived but triumphed for 130 years. I was reminded of the Kindly Light by a very curious story which comes from Washington.

The subject is again—light. But hardly a kindly one.

The tale goes that while the Cuban crisis was at its height, Mr. Khrushchev received a certain Mr. W. E. Knox in the Kremlin. Mr. Knox is the president of that highly American institution, the Westinghouse International Corporation.

Mr. Khrushchev is said, during their conversation, to have picked up from his desk a steel ruler which was pierced by a number of tiny holes. These, he explained to Mr. Knox with a grin of satisfaction, were caused by "Laser Light."

"Laser Light" is a new horror to pierce (and darken) "the encircling gloom."

Both the United States and Soviet Union are reported to be feverishly working on research to develop this latest scientific horror, the scale of their activities in the same class as the gigantic American "Manhattan Project" that produced the first atomic bomb.

Hundreds of electronics firms are engaged upon it, and most of the major research laboratories of the Universities in America are involved.

Mr. Khrushchev evidently believes that he is winning the race to develop "Laser Light"—as may have been indicated when he triumphantly showed his holed ruler to Mr. Knox.

I will not worry you with the technical details of "Laser Light," but the military consequences could be incalculable.

The new beam of light already generates a heat of 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. It may, after development, be able to destroy missiles in flight, and is being studied by the U.S. Army for its capabilities as a long range "death ray."

The military hope is that "Laser Light" will be able to destroy tanks from long distances and obliterate human life.

There are great civilian possibilities but for the moment (as always in these suicidal days) the bulk of the research is being directed towards destruction.

Soviet Art

Realist Tradition

By MARK FRANKLAND from Moscow

FOR every Soviet citizen who was annoyed by Mr. Khrushchev's recent attack on the abstract work of a group of Moscow artists, there must have been thousands who either did not care one way or another, or who thoroughly agreed with him.

This does not make the Soviet Union in any way exceptional. Even in West European countries where people at least have a chance to look at abstract art, to study its theory and history, it cannot be said to have a large and popular following. The average Briton, like his Soviet counterpart, is all too likely to agree with Mr. Khrushchev that "abstract painting looks like daubs done by a donkey's tail."

Negroes Welcome Victory of Whites

By CAROL KENNEDY

The result of the "white man's election" in Southern Rhodesia seems to have cleared the mood of sultry uncertainty for Negroes and whites alike. Both sides know exactly where they stand now that Sir Edgar Whitehead's United Federal Party with its groping, sometimes unconvincing, gestures towards race equality has been routed by a coalition of four conservative groups bent on keeping white control.

The whites, in responding to an election campaign to stop Sir Edgar's gradual "slide" towards desegregation and multi-racial government, have thus declared they will make no more concessions to the "ungrateful" Negroes. This mood has been predictable since the outbursts of nationalist violence in the fall.

At the same time the whites have satisfied a long-standing urge to assert their wishes against the "interference" of Britain and the United Nations—a feeling that has soured into an almost personal resentment in many Rhodesians.

The satisfaction of the Negro nationalists, who boycotted the elections and persuaded thousands of Negro voters to abstain, might appear a paradox.

But the answer is they now have an opponent they can understand—a party that fits their belief that the white man is only out for his own kind, without any nonsense about the eventual sharing of power. The battle lines are clearly drawn at last.

The Negroes thought Whitehead's government hypocritical and distrusted its intentions. But while its policies were being persuasively offered in the name of "partnership," the nationalists found it difficult to get to grips with the enemy.

Winston Field, leader of the victorious Rhodesian Front, is a far less complex opponent than the evasive, sophisticated Sir Edgar, whose cool donnish manner kept the Negroes in a state of puzzled irritability.

Field, a 58-year-old tobacco farmer from Salisbury, is an old-style paternalist who believes in what he calls "polite apartheid." He seems to strike Negroes as more human than Sir Edgar, and more honest.

This does not mean that the risk of race violence has lessened. It has probably increased dangerously. Yet the election has created agreement between blacks and whites on at least one contentious topic—the future of federation.

Politically, none of the three territories in central Africa now wants federation. Field, formerly leader of a party which sought Dominion status for Southern Rhodesia, is just as determined as the Negro leaders in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland to dissolve federation and sever more ties with Whitehall.

Observers in Britain feel that now all pretence has gone, there may be a better chance of negotiating a mutually beneficial economic link-up with no political overtones.

King's Favorite Now in Shackles

A 12-year-old boy has become a "casualty" of overthrow of Yemen's King Mohammed Ben Mahmud, shown here in shackles, was made Yemen's security chief because the king believed the boy had mystic powers. The youth is accused of using his power with greed, passing unfair sentences, confiscating property, and for himself inflicting whippings.

First Concrete Evidence

Brazil Uncovers Militant Red Plot

By LOUIS E. STEIN

From Rio de Janeiro

A raid on a guerrilla training camp in the central state of Goiás has turned up the first concrete evidence that the Communists are preparing for armed action in Brazil.

Police destroyed installations on a secluded farm about 800 miles from Brasília, arrested 26 guerrilla trainees and confiscated numerous small arms, other military equipment and Communist literature, including Ernest Guevara's manual on guerrilla warfare.

Impounded documents revealed the Communists are also orienting agitators for activities throughout central Brazil.

Among those arrested was Joao Nader, a personal aide of Goiás Gov. Mauro Borges. Goiás newspapers accused the governor of protecting Communists.

Reds have become increasingly active here since inauguration of President Joao Goulart in September, 1961. They figure prominently in his government.

Additional evidence that the Communists can count on help from high government quarters was found in the wreckage of the Brazilian airliner that crashed recently in Peru.

A letter addressed to a Cuban government official killed in the accident stated that organizers of a Castroite congress—here—thought—the Brazilian labor minister might be willing to provide food for delegates to the congress.

The letter, printed in the newspaper La Tribuna of Lima, said organizers of the pro-Cuba meeting were working closely with the "Partido Comunista do Brasil" (Communist Party of Brazil).

Communists here are split into two main groups. There is the Partido Comunista Brasileiro (Brazilian Communist Party) and the Partido Comunista do Brasil. The latter group supports the hard line of the Chinese Communists and is opposed to peaceful co-existence.

A "General Gonzaga" was identified in the letter as in charge of preparations for the pro-Castro congress. (Retired Gen. Luiz Gonzaga de Oliveira Brito is an active Communist who is often introduced at leftist rallies as the representative of the military.)

Adm. Carlos Pena Botto, president of the Brazilian Anti-Communist Crusade, says Brazilian Communists received $30,000,000 from abroad last year for their propaganda efforts.

The Communist Party in Brazil has been illegal for a number of years. But, nevertheless, the Reds are active in the country and, intelligence sources say, they have between 25,000 and 40,000 members. They publish two weekly newspapers, O Semanario and Novos Rumos, which are readily available on newsstands.

Pope Urged to Lead Anti-War Crusade

AP From London

The leader of a Protestant church peace group has appealed to Pope John to lead a religious crusade against war through the Vatican council.

In an open letter to the Pope, Dr. A. D. Belden, congressional general director of the Pax Christi League, said:

"At such a juncture of acute crisis for the church as well as for the world, Rome is holding her second Vatican council. Will this sublime opportunity of securing the full mobilization of Christendom against nuclear war and for war's abolition be seized boldly and efficiently? Or will it be lost in the maze of theological contention and domestic church business, all of which will have little meaning for our generation if general nuclear destruction occurs."

Dr. Belden said he believed if Rome took the lead "Protestantism and Eastern Orthodoxy (including the churches of Russia) would follow suit and the active moral leadership of a Christendom of at least 600,000,000 souls, united in a spirit of action, could be given, without hypocrisy, to the rest of mankind."

Canada Interested in OAS Report

By JACK BEST

A report prepared for the Organization of American States may turn out to have an important bearing on the lingering issue of whether Canada is to join the hemisphere association.

It was produced by a four-man working group of the OAS legal committee appointed to study what rules and procedures should be established for admitting new members.

Canadian officials are eager to see what action is taken on the report, tabled in Washington several weeks ago and now under study by the legal committee. A special OAS conference may be called to deal with the question.

No matter how the question is disposed of, it is likely to have implications for Canada.

The OAS at present comprises the United States and 20 Latin American republics—though the government of Cuba has been excluded from its activities.

Canada and the newly-independent Caribbean states of Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago are the only western hemisphere states that do not belong. However, the Canadian government has long had the idea of joining under consideration.

The OAS charter, signed by representatives of the 21 republics in 1948 at Bogotá, Colombia, is vague on just what would be required for membership by other countries in the hemisphere. Article 2 says "all American states that ratify the present charter are members of the organization."

The move to clarify the issue of new admissions was instigated some months ago by Guatemala, and related to possible membership applications from "new states." This would not include Canada which, it has always been assumed here, would get in simply by ratifying the charter and notifying OAS.

However, in carrying out its assignment, the working group dealt in terms of "new members" generally. The expression appeared several times in its report. Apparently, it pertains to Canada as well as other prospective new members.

The working group was composed of representatives of Guatemala, Colombia, Brazil and the United States.

One suggestion that caught the eye of Canadian authorities was that a new member, besides ratifying the OAS charter, should also be required to ratify the Rio Treaty of reciprocal assistance.

Under this treaty, OAS members act jointly to deal with aggression against any of their number, whether it originates inside or outside the hemisphere.

Canadians who advocate their country's joining OAS often argue that Canada could take out membership without at the same time subscribing to the Rio pact. There is a current of feeling in Canada that association with the pact would mean involvement in conflicts that periodically arise among Latin American countries.

Another suggestion of the working group was that a prospective new member "should not have ties or obligations towards extra-continental powers which would be incompatible with its status as a member."

The question being asked here is whether extra-continental powers might conceivably be interpreted by some OAS members to include the Commonwealth.

BACKGROUND

Unilateral Action

One U.S. City Bans Communist Goods

(UPI, from Columbus, Georgia)

Merchants here are busy clearing their shelves of all Communist-made goods before the Jan. 1 deadline.

On that date, this southwest Georgia city becomes perhaps the first municipality in the nation to virtually ban by restrictive ordinance the sale of Red-made goods.

While merchants may sell such goods, they must first purchase a special business licence that costs $1,000. They also must display a sign reading "Licensed to Sell Communist Products."

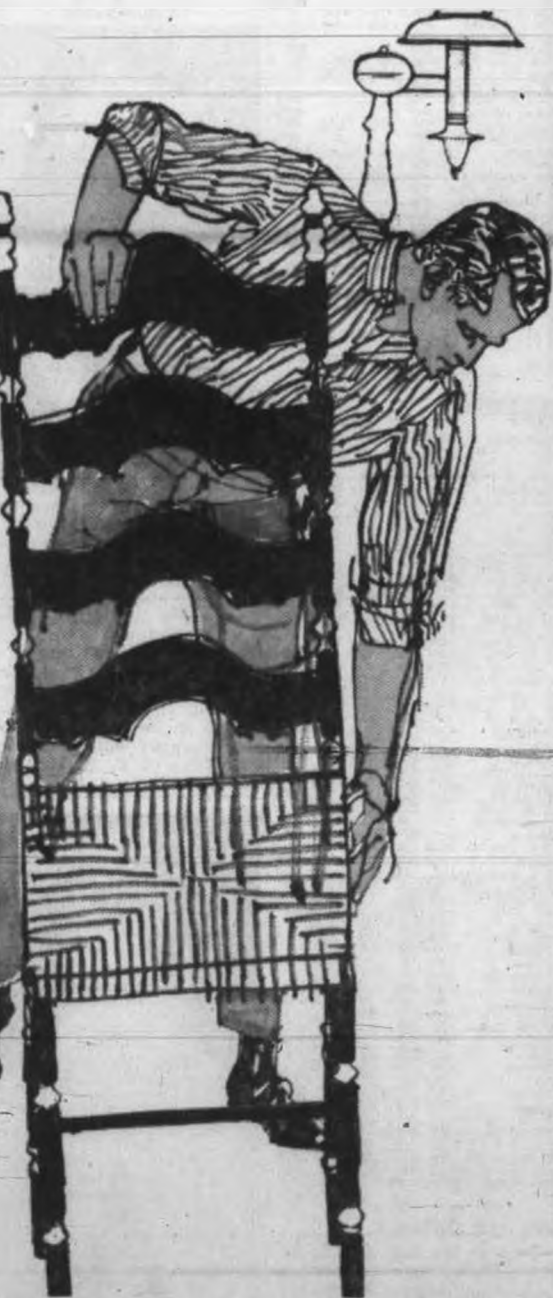

All stationery and billheads of such businesses must have printed on them the information that they sell Red-made goods.

So far, no one has applied for a licence and officials say they don't expect any applications.

Regarding the constitutionality of the ordinance, a number of attorneys here say they doubt it could withstand a court test, but backers of the ordinance say they are not disturbed whether the law is constitutional or not.

Their position is summed up by furniture store owner Sam Persons, who requested the city commissioners to pass the ordinance. He says:

"We feel we have the right to protect our community against the influx of merchandise made by slave labor. The political leaders are in favor of the move because they want to defend our country, labor is in favor of it and industry is in favor of it. Therefore, who is against it?"

Bird Census Saturday

The effects of starlings, pesticides and advancing human settlement are among things which will interest Victoria birdwatchers in their annual Christmas bird census Saturday.

The Christmas census is one of several taking place all over North America. Last year 661 reports were published in Audubon Field Notes.

More than 30 people will participate in this year's Victoria census, sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society.

Most will be in the field from dawn to dark and some will check for owls after sundown.

David Stirling, one of the organizers of the Victoria census, last night said he thinks starlings, introduced to Vancouver Island some five years ago, will eventually "find their own level" in the balance of nature.

But in the meanwhile, he said, they are using up tree-holes which otherwise might shelter bluebirds and swallows. He said Victoria nature-lovers are also concerned about whether or not insecticides and weed-killers are causing declines in the population of small birds. They are also interested in results of bird habitats being taken over by man.

The count area must fit within a 15-mile-diameter circle under Audubon Society regulations. The Victoria group's area includes all of Greater Victoria, west to Witty's Lagoon and north to Island View Beach.

This year special attention will be given to finding and counting bald eagles.

Highest Canadian counts come from the country's west coast. Last year Victoria recorded 58,000 birds belonging to 124 species.

These counts are of value to bird experts by showing changes in numbers and species through the years.

Fewer Outs Than Ins For Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—More migrants entered Britain than left it during 1961, boosting the population by 170,000 to an estimated 52,925,000, it was announced Thursday.

Statistics for 1961 said that while rising immigration reached an estimated 100,000 for mid-1961 to mid-1962, emigration dropped by 1,000.

Sudden End

Columbia Talks Wound Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Columbia River talks between the federal, British Columbia and United States governments ended unexpectedly Wednesday night.

Technical and financial experts from the three governments had been expected to continue talks that started Wednesday for several days.

NO DETAILS
Gordon Robertson, federal deputy minister of northern affairs and spokesman for the experts, said no details of the conference can be released until participants have reported to their governments.

He indicated a second conference may be called soon.

The experts discussed B.C. Premier Bennett's demand that downstream benefit power that the province would receive under the international Columbia treaty be sold in the U.S. for five mills a kilowatt hour, 50 PER CENT BACK.

The treaty provides that 50 per cent of the power generated in the U.S. as a result of storage at dams to be built on the Columbia in B.C.—1,300,000 kilowatts—shall be returned to the province.

The premier has said the province would accept the equivalent of five mills—the amount required to cover the cost of building the three Canadian dams in the treaty—Mica Creek, Duncan Lake and High Arrow.

Britain Asks Equal Rights With France

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Britain Thursday asked the Common Market council of ministers for institutional rights on a par with France and West Germany should it enter the six-nation trade bloc.

Institutional matters generally cover the house rules of the Common Market and involve such points as the number of jobs allotted to each country.

Expectations Exceeded

Canada's Austerity Bypassed B.C.

Austerity in 1962 was something for the rest of Canada—it made no visible impact on British Columbia's surging economy, Trade Minister Robert Bonner said yesterday.

In a year-end report showing significant advances in all major economic indicators the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics said business increases during the year "exceeded all expectations."

PROPHETS DISCREDITED

Mr. Bonner said the report discredits "the professional prophets of doom and gloom" and contains "the biggest economic story in the past four years."

Many aspects of the B.C. economic story were spectacular, he said, because they were contrary to firm national trends. The figures show that 1962 was B.C.'s best year since 1957.

EXPORTS CLIMB

Mr. Bonner said the most significant increase was the 11 per cent hike in B.C. exports—representing a total value of $1,200,000,000.

The largest advance was the 795 per cent gain in crude oil production made possible largely through the completion of pipelines linking the Peace River oil fields with the lower Mainland. Mr. Bonner said the increase means B.C. now produces half of its petroleum requirements.

The report showed a labor force increase of 4.3 per cent to a total of 613,000 and a 6.6 per cent improvement in employment. Unemployment at June was 5.4 per cent of the labor force—a drop of more than two per cent from 1961.

RETAIL SALES UP
Retail sales showed an 8.2 per cent increase for a total value of $1,800,000,000 and there was a 15 per cent jump

Train Crash Fatal to 20
GUATEMALA (AP)—Twenty persons were killed and 41 injured in the crash of a speeding freight train into a standing passenger train Thursday at the village of Buena Vista, 150 miles west of this capital.

The passenger train was jammed with people on their way here for Christmas.

FOREST OUTPUT BOOSTED
Forest production increased 14 per cent adding $95,000,000 to its 1961 value and mineral production shot ahead nearly 20 per cent. Wholesale value of fisheries products leaped ahead 14.3 per cent.

Capital expenditures gained 2.3 per cent or $29,000,000 over 1961 and building permit values shot ahead 10.8 per cent for a total of $230,000,000.

What Influence Has Church In Canada Today?

on what exactly this influence comprises.

But let us hear what in particular lies behind these opinions and how Canadian churches wield the power given them by simply being religious institutions operated by humans, trying to spread out their individual gospels.

"What the United Church is trying to do in society deals with the whole man," says Miss Butler. "The United Church is concerned about man's corporate life."

"There is one royal law—the law of love."

She goes on to ask "what other institution is fostering the development of loving concern today?"

Not for Itself

The church is not there for itself but to do God's will, she says. Miss Butler sees the church's active influence disclosed in the lively interest shown by all kinds of news media in regard to the church. Aside from the spiritual concern, she attaches a measurable, statistical label to the United Church's influence.

"We have nine secondary schools in Canada, three universities and one college, eight theological colleges, one covenant college and four lay training schools."

Many Schools

"The United Church operates six Indian schools, 60 summer camps. It cares for 670,000 Sunday school pupils in 5,200 church schools with 77,000 voluntary teachers."

"There are 284,000 pupils engaged in mid-week activities, 14,000 Christian education groups, 66,000 pupils attend vacation church schools, and 20,000 young people are in confirmation classes."

The United Church, Miss Butler says, "is trying to make people with good character and a faith in God."

33 Tongues

The United Church has 5,741 congregations all over Canada—and 2,225 of these churches have less than 500 parishioners—and 3,332 ministers.

In addition, 246 missionaries operate in 12 areas. "We preach in 20 different languages," says Miss Butler. "and we do pastoral work in 33 tongues."

Home Missions

"Our home missions are in lumber camps, mining areas, prisons, hospitals, and they operate by boat, airplane, snowmobile and dog teams."

"We have our own audio-visual studio and 38 United Church chaplains are in the armed forces."

Miss Butler wraps up her concept of the United Church's influence in these words:

"We believe we have an active influence, sometimes indirectly. We are building concept in people."

Word of Warning

Dr. McLean asserts the churches' impact on Canada today, but says "churchgoers should take more active interest in civic politics."

At the same time, he has a word of warning.

"I don't believe in a church becoming a power group. It shouldn't enter the political sphere because then it becomes a mixture . . . Churches a power group? Is there a possibility this ever was so, or are there trends toward it?"

(I will reserve this chapter for tomorrow's article.)

Slipping?

Mr. Holmes, who considers himself an orthodox Baptist minister, fears the influence of the church is slipping to an extent where "not the same strong convictions of religious practice" is maintained.

He regrets there are "modern trends of liberalism in theology. I'm a fundamental theologian, and rather orthodox. We need authority, the verbal inspiration of the scriptures."

"If that is gone, the convictions change, posing great problems. There is not the same regard today for the Bible as the word of God."

"The consciousness of God is slipping," says Mr. Holmes who is a stout adherent of Canada's Sunday laws.

He also sees sin as a disease. "We prefer to deal with the diseases (of sin) itself. We preach the Gospel, which is the remedy."

The ideal influence of the church on Canadian life is offered by Father O'Connell:

Daily Duties

"The members of the church, motivated by the love of Christ, can spiritualize their daily duties and can, therefore, influence every aspect of Canadian life."

From his own observance, the priest knows "a lot of people who do something for their neighbor in order to please Christ whom they see in their neighbor."

Why do they do this?

Urge to Help

"People have a natural urge to help, but this is more effective and more lasting when motivated by the desire to serve Christ."

(Father O'Connell stresses his answers "have reference to the Catholic religion and the Catholic church, rather than religion and churches in general.")

One thing the priest wants understood clearly is that "the church consists of the clergy, the religious and the laity. It is the role of the laity to bring a Christian influence into daily life."

Justice, Charity

"In many cities and towns dedicated and unselfish laymen are bringing Christian attitudes of justice and charity to the labor-management world, to the field of social welfare and to under-developed countries, to mention just a few spheres of influence."

"This is one of the jobs Christians have," says Father O'Connell. "People in general take too little interest in political questions, that means all Christians."

The influence of churches in regard to children is seen as an undesirable trend by two people—one a former psychiatrist, the other a teacher of history.

Little Choice

Buddhism and Hinduism are more humanistic than Christianity as they are more concerned in a protective attitude to children, says Dr. Chisholm, a scientific humanist and member of the Unitarian Church.

"The upbringing of children in Christian communities is so shaped as to bring them up under orthodoxy."

"Very few children in Christian families—even today—are given a choice of religion," Dr. Chisholm says.

Doesn't Agree

However, Miss Butler of the United Church doesn't agree with this view:

"Buddhism says no to life. Christianity says yes."

Children are too young for faith, but luckily they are old enough to discern, says Prof. Emery in regard to religious instruction of children.

"Children are conformists," he says, "though on the whole it is unlikely they would believe biblical stories."

How Far?

For himself, he hasn't noticed any active church influence in Canada today.

How far, then, should this influence reach? Where does it start, where does it stop, and where does it overstep its boundaries?

Are church and state drifting toward a union of power? And are politics shaped by the church's influence?

Saturday: Church and politics, or both?

Evidence Claimed On Troop Buildup

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Sir Roy Welensky, Rhodesian federal prime minister, said Thursday night he had undeniable evidence in February last year that Britain was building up forces in Kenya in a move against the federation.

Welensky was replying in Parliament to the debate on his speech Wednesday in which he accused the British government of treachery in granting the right of secession to Nyasaland without consulting his government.

The charge was flatly denied at a hastily-summoned press conference by Lord Alport, British high commissioner in the Rhodesian federation. Welensky explained Thursday night to Parliament his reference Wednesday to "fighting it out if necessary."

Closure of Jewish Groups In Argentina Draws Protest

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Federation of Jewish Cultural Associations Thursday wired a denunciation to the United Nations secretariat protesting the governmental closure of 11 Jewish organizations, mainly primary schools, for alleged Communist affiliation.

The Jewish protest cable to United Nations Secretary-General Thant termed the action by the interior ministry "the gravest Nazi-line, anti-Semitic outrage" yet in a number of anti-Jewish incidents here recently, most perpetrated by neo-Nazi, ultra-nationalist youth groups.

Police closed down the 11 institutions on suspicion of being engaged in Communist activities. The Federation of Jewish Cultural Associations said the raids were made without warning from Dec. 12 to 15, under terms of the State of Siege decrees still in effect here.

The popular Israelite theatre, one of the closed institutions, said it was shuttered by officers citing a 1962 decree aimed specifically at Israeli activities.

The theatre group, in a statement, said it was one of the artistic groups which most enhances Argentine national culture.

Unemployment Insurance Proposal:

Higher Benefits for Shorter Time

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Gill committee on unemployment insurance proposed Thursday a three-stage program of support for unemployed workers, including a universal unemployment insurance plan.

The four-man committee placed 45 major recommendations before the federal government in a 35,000-word report tabled Thursday in the Commons.

The three-stage support program for jobless workers calls for:

1. An insurance plan founded on insurance principles and supported by contributions from employers and employees—but not from government, as under the present plan. This plan would take the first impact of unemployment but only for a limited time.
2. A plan of extended benefits payable to those who have exhausted their insurance benefits and, subject to certain conditions, to those whose unemployment follows a seasonal pattern—to be paid for by the federal government. The annual cost is estimated at $150,000,000 on the basis of recent unemployment rates.

3. An assistance plan to deal with residual, hard-core unemployment, applied on a needs-test basis under the present provincial-federal unemployment assistance program.

In essence, the proposed insurance scheme would provide higher benefits—a maximum of $44 weekly for claimants with dependents, compared

Target: Abuses

OTTAWA (CP) — The Gill committee on unemployment insurance recommended steps to help eliminate abuses of the insurance program by married women.

At the same time, it made clear that women are not the only ones guilty of abusing the plan.

It recommended that women whose employment terminates because of pregnancy be considered unavailable for employment until eight weeks after confinement.

with the present $36; and about $33 weekly for claimants without dependents, compared with $27.

A new earning class would be added to include all employees who are earning $80 a week or more—with a higher level of contributions and benefits. Maximum benefit was proposed at $48 for a claimant with a dependent and $36 for those without a dependent.

Although benefits for all categories would be higher, the duration of benefits would be reduced to a maximum of 36 weeks, instead of the present 52 weeks.

ALL WOULD CONTRIBUTE

For the insurance plan, almost all employees over 18—regardless of income—would be required to contribute to the insurance fund. Thus, the committee urged that coverage be extended to all government employees, to those earning more than $5,460 annually, to workers employed in hospitals and charitable institutions, and to teachers.

Because of administrative problems, the committee excluded coverage for employees in agriculture and domestic service but urged that an effort be made to extend the plan to cover these groups if and when appropriate procedures can be devised.

The report proposed no change in the present rates of contribution to the unemployment insurance fund.

The government was urged to scrap the existing seasonal benefit plan in its present form—said to be a major cause of the rapid decline in the insurance fund. Under the new scheme, insurance benefit would not be paid to jobless workers for periods of unemployment that are shown to be of a repetitive seasonal character.

The committee was set up when the unemployment fund showed signs of heading into

Labor Rules Supported

OTTAWA (CP) — Present rules barring payment of unemployment insurance to workers made idle by strikes or lockouts have been supported by the Gill committee.

The committee recommended broader application of the rule in the case of construction industry strikes affecting several construction jobs.

The committee described as "sound" the present rule which denies insurance benefits to workers who refuse to cross picket lines.

bankruptcy, under the pressure of heavy national unemployment and the extension of insurance benefits to seasonal workers and self-employed fishermen.

The government has indicated early action based on the Gill report, possibly early in the new year.

To meet abuses of the fund by some retired workers who are collecting a pension and also claiming unemployment insurance benefits, the report recommended that henceforth pension payments be considered as earnings.

This would allow elderly workers with small pensions who are looking for jobs to draw some insurance benefits to supplement their income.

The four-man committee of inquiry was established July 17, 1961, with Ernest G. Gill, 58, of Toronto, president of Canada Life Assurance Company, as chairman.

Five Airmen Die in Crash

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Air Force plane crashed Thursday at Kadana Air Base on Okinawa, killing five air force men aboard the plane and five Okinawans on the ground, air force spokesmen in Japan said.

Separate Insurance Urged for Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP) — Self-employed fishermen should be removed from coverage under the present unemployment insurance program, the Gill committee said Thursday.

It recommended that a separate plan be instituted for fishermen, providing an income supplement to those chronically under-employed.

RELOCATION
"This should probably be accompanied by relocation of fishermen away from sub-marginal fishing areas and to areas where they can be expected to fish a long enough season to improve their economic circumstances," said the committee.

SLOW PROCESS
Such relocation, "even if possible," would be a slow and painful process. Some program of income supplements would have to be maintained "for a considerable time."

The committee coupled its recommendations with strong criticism of the way in which self-employed fishermen now are covered under the general unemployment insurance plan.

The effect of the plan had been to distort normal fishing operations in some areas.

The committee said it did not feel competent to recommend a general program to solve the problems of fishermen and the fishing industry.

The fisheries department have the main responsibility rather than the unemployment for carrying out the proposed insurance commission, should plan.

YOU'RE SURE TO FIND IT AT CAPITAL

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

ANOTHER CHAPTER: Well, we're on it again—our annual soul-searching about the failure of a Canadian hockey club. This time it's the Saskatoon Quakers who are letting us down and the bitter flow of words has not yet reached its peak. They have been beaten by 7-0, 13-3, 5-1 and 4-1 in the four games they have played; but worse than that humiliating record, it seems, is their conduct. Once again Europeans are being given the wrong kind of impressions about Canadians and Canada.

To blame the Quakers isn't quite fair. While there can be no excusing the poor impression they are making as unhappy losers, an expenses-paid trip to Europe is something most of us would jump to get and there can be no blaming them for taking it. The blame lies with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for sanctioning a junkie by what must be the most-veteran Canadian hockey club ever to make such a trip, and one which includes on its roster several players who, most would agree, could not be expected to leave the proper or desired Canadian image.

But CAHA selection makes this an "official" tour and anything the Quakers do as a club or individually does not, overseas, reflect as much on the club or individual as it does on Canada.

Under our present hockey set-up in which, almost without exception, all of our good players are playing professionally, we have to recognize what by now must be an obvious fact: that those who are left in the so-called "amateur" ranks are no longer good enough to often whip the better European clubs. Perhaps we should give up sending clubs until we can send our honest professionals, but if we are to keep on sending teams overseas for "goodwill" tours, the least the CAHA could do would be to make certain that we are represented by clubs who can lose with grace and be a credit in their department both on and off the ice.

Winning is not necessarily vital on a goodwill tour. In fact, it can sometimes be the reverse. We have fresh in mind our touring rugby team. It managed only one win on its trip to Britain but there was enthusiastic and unanimous agreement that it had left a fine impression of this country and its peoples. We can also take a lesson from the Russian touring team, who, as far as I know, have never left a bad impression either winning or losing. They are, of course, under strict instructions and, possibly, surveillance, but they have been well-behaved. I would dread the day when there is government control of our sports but perhaps our government should have something to say about who can go on these goodwill tours.

FEW FOR GORDIE: Frank J. Selke has a record of success that brooks no argument and this, with his long association with the game, makes him an authoritative chronicler of hockey.

Recently off the presses is his, and Gordon Green's, literary effort entitled "Behind the Cheering." It is interesting reading for the fan, although in less than 200 pages it is impossible to fully cover a half century of association with the game.

Perhaps the most interesting development as one browses through the pages is what almost amounts to a disparagement of Gordie Howe, who rates with most as the greatest player the game has seen.

That Selke would state "of all the hockey players I have known Richard is the greatest" is understandable. The Rocket was undoubtedly great, and there will be many who will agree with the Montreal general manager that he was the greatest of all. But it seems as if Selke tried to make his cause by ignoring the Detroit winger, who is almost certain to break Richard's record of 514 National Hockey League goals.

Howe is skipped over rather lightly in view of his record, getting hardly more than a single mention of any length. "Records are made to be broken," Selke wrote. "Since he has the advantage of a longer career, plus more games and season in which to overcome Maurice Richard's best efforts, Gordie Howe is gradually overhauling the Rocket... but make no mistake about it, Howe is in the game for 60 minutes, and he is a threat for every minute of every game."

However, in a chapter devoted to the greatest players in hockey, Howe gets no mention on a lengthy list which includes Hap Day, Ted Kennedy, Eddie Goodfellow, Syl Apps, Bushy Jackson, Dit Clapper and Babe Siebert among others.

Howe, Selke explains, lacks "Richard's blazing color," and because Howe plays with an apparently relaxed grace, he was never bothered with injuries. Howe's goals "seem anticlimactic" because he is "always more or less at ease." That Richard, or Howe, or more, another tremendously exciting player, had a color and presence that the phlegmatic Howe surely lacks is true. Either of the blazing French-Canadian was certainly in one sense a greater figure than Howe, but when one picks the greatest player of all time, it would seem that he would pick the one who played the game better than anyone.

Richard played 978 NHL games, scoring 544 goals and making 421 assists. As of the start of this season, Howe had played 1,050 NHL games and had 502 goals and 624 assists. These figures indicate Richard a better scorer and Howe a considerably better playmaker.

Richard's combativeness and will to win could lift his club but he was no better than Howe at getting the big goals. What Howe could do better was make the play for the big goals. He was also penalty-killer second to none and had the kind of ability which would have made him a star at any position. In this book they are one-two on the all-time list, and there is quite an argument for putting Richard at one, but no argument at all for virtually ignoring Howe. Not even loyalty.

'Peerless Percy' Jackson Still Makes Ice Chips Fly

VANCOUVER (CP)—It was 35 years ago that 18-year-old Percy Jackson brought his baseball cap and a wide grin to Vancouver to play goal for Frank Patrick's hockey club.

But the man who was known as "Peerless Percy," the darling of the Vancouver fans, still is making the ice chips fly at the old Forum.

Percy came from Canmore, Alta., via the Trail Smoke Eaters. He came in as a rookie goalie. The cap, with its long bill snapped upward toward the rafters, and a wide, crooked grin, were his trademarks.

DRIVES MACHINE

Today, Percy pilots the large, tractor-like machine that simultaneously scrapes and floods the ice during the intermissions in the public skating or between periods at hockey games.

Old-timers recall him as a player of great ability, but admit that the grin and the cap had much to do with his popularity.

Percy came close to the big time. Players looking for the Patrick here—Mickey McKay, Frank Frederickson, Frank Boucher and others—had made the jump to the big league about the time Percy came in.

SOLD TO BOSTON

"In fact, Frank Patrick had it all fixed for us, his Vancouver club, to go up as a team. He was going to put a second National Hockey League club in Chicago. We would be the Chicago Shamrocks."

"Then, one of our best men—Art Somers—blew it all up by selling himself to Chicago. That sort of showed we weren't protected so Frank had to sell most of the players to NHL teams in a hurry before they sold themselves."

TOUGH JOE

Percy was dealt to Boston Bruins, where the great Tiny Thompson was goalie of record. Jackson went to Boston Cubs, a minor league affiliate.

"Rookie goalies don't crack the NHL," he said. "Ever notice how long Johnny Bower, Terry Sawchuk and the Gumpers have been around?"

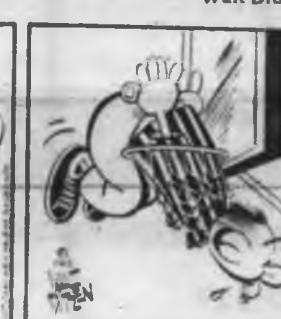

Percy got to play "the odd one" with Bruins.

"And with the Cubs, when there was a pay cut all around, my salary stayed the same. I stayed another four years."

Percy came back to Vancouver eventually for more years of hockey. He's still part of the game, but is it the same game he played?

"No, it isn't. I don't think it is as good. "But the fans like it and that is what counts."

New Rules for Sneaks

By JIM TAYLOR

International rules have turned basketball in the Inter-City League into non-stop excitement, but they have also created a couple of characters the game could do without.

Meet Wilt Dirtyneak and Elgin Cleansneak. You can see them at any league game, no matter which teams are playing, and they'll certainly be at Central Junior High School tomorrow night when Haida Chiefs play Vancouver Puritans.

Both have found a loophole in the new foul rule. It reads that, except for the last five minutes of each half, a team being fouled does not get a free shot but merely takes possession of the ball out of bounds, unless the player fouled was in the act of shooting.

Red Wing Plans Ruined by Bruins

Detroit Red Wings, all set to grab themselves a share of first place in the National Hockey League, had a crimp put in their plans last night by, of all people, Boston Bruins.

Bruins, to whom victory has been little more than an unfamiliar word this season, jumped on the Wings for two goals in the last six minutes in Detroit and came away with a 5-3 win—only their fourth of the season.

Jerry Toppazzini's fifth goal of the season at 14:38 of the third period put them ahead to stay, and Charlie Burns scored on the empty net at 19:33.

Red Wings could have tied the idle Chicago Black Hawks for the lead with a win last night, and Gordie Howe tried mightily to give it to them.

Howe, 35 next March 31, scored his 12th and 13th goals of the season. He has a career total of 515 now, and the way he has been playing lately he could be flirting with Maurice Richard's all-time record of 544 before the season ends. He leads the league with 31 points.

FIRST GOAL
Bill Gadsby got the other goal for the Wings, his first in 44 games. Forbes Kennedy, Don McKenney and Tom Williams scored for Bruins, who got plenty of help from subgoalie Ed Johnston. Robby Perreault's replacement made 38 stops.

Montreal Canadiens, at full strength for a change, slugged it out with Toronto Maple Leafs in Montreal and Talbot was behind four times for a 4-4 tie.

BIG GOAL
Bernie Geoffrion got the final goal in a dash from his own blue line to beat Johnny Bower at 14:15 of the third period. Earlier, Toronto had got two goals from Dick Duff, one from Eddie Litzenberger and one from Frank Mahovlich (his 18th). Henri Richard, Gilles Tremblay and Bobor Rousseau tied it up on the first three times Leafs had the lead.

LEADS FELTED
Twice in the final five minutes Canadiens' players had to be helped from the ice with minor injuries, and fans back of the Toronto bench pelted Leafs with programs in protest over the rough play.

Most disgusted man in the Forum was Toe Blake, who benched two of his five defencemen—Jean-Guy Talbot and Tom Johnson—for the final 14 minutes. Johnson had been on the ice for all four Toronto goals and Talbot was his partner when three were scored.

Killer whales in Saanich Inlet... about 35 of them... put a damper on last weekend's fishing, especially in Brentwood Bay waters where the big black whales came so close to shore their breathing could be heard from the boathouses.

They were in there again Wednesday. This doesn't mean that no fish were caught. Fishing was still pretty good over the weekend, but not as hot as it has been.

John Cockrill reports the bigger fish are not as plentiful as they were in Tod Inlet; and along the wall to Willis Point, but there are still plenty of small ones, even after the whales. "Fishing is excellent. Almost all anglers are bringing in some salmon and many are taking limits and near limits," writes May Hall.

Bucktail flies, small spoons and lake trolls are popular lures, the White Lady is still best spot for big grilse and morning fishing has been the best.

Majority are fishing with no weight, or very little weight, but some are going down with their second line and picking up springs. Like Al Wright who landed a 7-12 pounder on Minnow-Teeser and one pound of weight.

Outside Victoria waters have been on again, off again, with some hot fishing at times, and salmon up to 31 pounds. Bob Wright reports Ten Mile Point, Goat Island and Trial Island good on a critical bite which only lasts about 20 minutes at the last of the flood tide. Sidney waters have been good; Padder Bay is on one day, off the next; Bechar Bay was hot at the weekend for 20-pounders and Secretary Island off Sooke has been good to commercial trollers.

Cowichan Bay is giving up winter springs on hootchle-kootchle and flasher and Crofton is still good for big grilse. Nanaimo has been good for winter springs and grilse.

Heavy rains again beat out most steelheaders at the weekend, but those who were out are hitting them. Ricky Clevinara landed a good-sized steelhead in the Sooke.

Berky Kennett reports the Cowichan is clearing nicely and by the weekend, if there is not too much rain, there should be good steelheading in the big back eddies. Art Hancock has been getting steelies for his parties by drifting the top end in a boat.

Stamp Falls pool and China Creek have been producing steelies.

Dougan Lake has been giving up some good trout fishing, with flatfish the killer.

Long-awaited news is that Matheson Lake at Rocky Point East Sooke is now open to fishing, but we are still a little hazy about access. One way is along the railway track from Gillespie Road at East Sooke.

Oyster, Campbell, Quinsam and Gold River are all producing some steelies.

Remember steelhead fishing restrictions at listed areas are in effect Dec. 15 to March 31.

The time is short on start worrying about the coho fishing in the Sooke to Cowichan Bay water next fall.

The International Salmon Fisheries Commission, which controls Fraser River sockeye and pink salmon fishing, has proposed more time... three days a week instead of two days... be allowed next year at the entrance to Juan de Fuca Strait from Aug. 11 to Sept. 21.

The commission expects a good run of 6,000,000 pink salmon this year... 2,000,000 for the Americans, 2,000,000 for the Canadians, 2,000,000 for the Fraser spawning beds, compared to 1,000,000 for the spawning beds in 1961.

Trouble is the commission only regulates for the Fraser sockeye and pinks (humpback) salmon. The sports coho are left to reach the spawning beds as best they can.

The danger is that seiners and gill netters will have one more day a week to put that chain of nets across the entrance to the Strait and catch our sports coho, along with their pink salmon.

Commercial trolling gear will be banned on weekends during that period.

There is time to protest. There is a government-appointed advisory committee which meets early in January to study proposals and form recommendations to the commission, before regulations are finalized. The advisory committee is made up of representatives of commercial fishing interests, federal fisheries officials and sportsmen.

But the sportsmen's member is not representative of the Sooke to Cowichan Bay sports fishermen who are vitally concerned in these regulations.

He is Jim Murray of Vancouver, who represents the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, a group which has done more than any other B.C. group for sportsmen, but is only slightly concerned with saltwater fishing.

The salmon fishing groups, with 20,000 members, represented by the Amalgamated Conservation Society on the lower Island, have no say and to the best of our knowledge have never heard from Murray.

It is time for the Amalgamated and other salmon fishermen to be heard... and they have only a couple of weeks to make a noise. Victoria MP A. DeB. McPhillips and Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton are the ones who can best act on your views.

Hockey's 'First Family' Plays in California

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The farming community of Delilah, Sask., and the giant industrial complex of California had very little in common — until the Bentley boys headed south.

Now both areas are closely linked with the off-and-on-ice antics of one of the best known hockey families in North America.

For the Bentley clan, Doug and his brother Max, along with two members of the second generation, seasonal commuting between the two points is an ideal arrangement.

They spend the summer months in aimless Saskatchewan working their wheat farms, then flies the severe Canadian winter by playing and coaching in the California Hockey League.

Doug, 46, who led the 1942-43 National Hockey League scoring race with 73 points for Chicago Black Hawks, coaches the Long Beach, Calif., Seals.

Brother Max, 42, another former NHL great, is the guiding arm of the Burbank, Calif., Stars, another entry in the four-team league.

Max's son, Lynn, 20, and his nephew, Bev, 30, make up the younger half of the Bentley foursome.

Lynn, in his first year of senior hockey, plays centre for the Stars, while Bev, who played with the San Francisco Seals of the WHL last season, handles the goaltending chores for the Stars.

The name Bentley is synonymous with hockey.

GREAT LINE

In the early 1940s the great attacking line of the Chicago Black Hawks was made up of three Bentleys—Doug, Max and Reggy.

Some years earlier, five Bentley brothers played on the same team in Drumheller, Alta.

"It's pretty hard to get it out of your blood when you have been in it for so many years," said Doug, reflectively. "Our's was always a hockey family."

NO DIFFERENCE

And age appears to have made little difference to the older members of the Bentley clan now in southern California.

Although both in their 40s, Doug and Max look like Canada's answer to the new frontier's physical fitness program.

"I'm not in shape because of what I eat or any secret diet," said Doug, who tips the scales at a little over 160 pounds. "Chalk it up to calisthenics. I've done 15 minutes of exercise every day of my adult life."

Both elder Bentleys came out of semi-retirement and wheat farming when hockey fever started to grip the shores of the southern Pacific two years ago.

Garden Notes

Death to Aphids!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In our part of the country, the most serious insect pest we must contend with is the aphid. Not that the individual aphid does much of a terrible amount of harm, but because their prolific rate of propagation is such they could overrun the whole garden in a single season if allowed to multiply uncontrolled.

At this season of the year, most kinds of aphid have died or gone into hibernation, but their eggs have been laid—tiny, shiny oval eggs in masses on our shrubs and trees. It is from these eggs most of next year's troubles will hatch if we don't do something about them.

The winter wash is the answer to aphid eggs—and to quite a few other troubles too—and for my money, the winter spraying is the most important one of the year. Ideally, fruit trees and soft fruit bushes should be sprayed about seven times per year—this is the government recommendation for commercial growers—but seven sprays is a bit too strenuous for the average backyard gardener. In cutting down to a more easily handled routine, though, the winter wash should be the last to be abandoned.

Apart from killing aphid eggs, the winter wash helps control the small, shell-like scale insects that so often infest plums, cherries and peaches. It will also destroy the spores of the apple scab fungus and eradicates the lichens, moss and green algae on the bark. While moss on a tree does no particular harm in itself, it gives shelter to insect pests and fungus spores seeking winter quarters.

The sprays used for winter washing are caustic in nature, and can only be used when the trees and shrubs are fully dormant. This means any time after the leaves have fallen in the autumn and before the buds start swelling in early spring. Dormant sprays may not be used on evergreens.

The soft fruits—gooseberries, currants, raspberries, logans and blackberries—should come first, along with the stone fruits—peaches, plums, cherries and apricots—as these start into growth so early in the spring. And if you put off the winter wash too long, you may miss the boat. Apples and pears may be left until later, taking advantage of any spell of good spraying weather that may come along. Strawberries and nut trees are not sprayed, but it is a good idea to do the ornamental shrubs, trees and roses along with the fruit, except, of course, the winter-flowering kinds and evergreens.

The best spray to clean off moss and kill bug eggs is a tar distillate sold under the name of Spray Oil, but this preparation isn't much good for preventing sooty apples and pears. Lime sulphur cleans up scab, but isn't very effective against insect eggs. Fortunately, the two can be mixed, and a pretty good all-purpose spray is two parts lime sulphur plus one pint dormant oil emulsion mixed into five gallons of water.

Apply as a really drenching spray, making sure every part of the tree is wetted. Grass, growing plants and evergreen shrubs nearby should be covered and protected from the caustic spray, and it is a wise precaution for the operator to wear goggles and smear his face and hands with barrier cream or vaseline.

Incidentally, this spray is grand for cleaning moss and slime from crazy paving and stepping stones which become dangerously slippery from this cause.

JOHN CROSBY Meets Idealist Who Makes Money

Truth Antidote to Sensation

PARIS—I have had a talk with Eric Leiser, an idealist who makes money. Leiser is the man who produced Mein Kampf, the documentary on Hitler which I thought wouldn't draw 12 people to the box office, and which was a gigantic box office hit.

Leiser's second film was a documentary on Eichmann, another grim one, and he's currently working on the third of a trilogy, which is about the perils and hope of the atomic age, which is not exactly escapist entertainment either.

I can understand these films being done; I can't understand their popularity and neither can Leiser. Mein Kampf, he told me, was an immense box office hit in 95 countries. I asked him if he was surprised by this.

"Very much," he said. "I

Documentaries With Messages

didn't think it would be a success. But I think people are interested in people, and will come to see things put in human terms.

"I have a feeling that today the picture industry is changing. Pictures are getting so expensive. Producers try to be sensational or spectacular or both.

"The exact opposite is just to show the truth on all levels, the high level and the low level."

I told him that I had heard something similar from a publisher of children's books who told me: "Children want books to be as true as possible. Fiction is quite out of fashion with French children.

"A few years ago, children wanted to read fiction about people landing on the moon. Fiction went out of fashion very quietly and very quickly."

"I didn't know anything about Hiroshima when I went there," Leiser told me. "I went to find out—from people in hospitals, in homes, in the streets. I had all the case histories in my hands a political film. I want to show what it means to survive an atom bomb. How do you live afterwards? What happens to people who survive? Are they different?"

That's what Leiser went to Hiroshima to find out and that's what is in his film.

"The film starts in Mexico where our pictures show an untouched, idyllic world with the natural relation of man towards life and death. It then turns toward the world of anonymous life, the world in which the atom bomb was born."

"The film demonstrates how the atom bomb, instead of terminating the war, introduced the cold war, and how the bomb grows bigger and the threat grows steadily."

"As a contrast to the world of the victims and the reality of the madman, the film shows the life of the unsuspecting and unconcerned, from the night life and bars and strip teases in Hiroshima to the well-known ingredients of our own pleasures. The simultaneousness of the contrast gives the film its dimension."

Gruesome Roles Out

HOLLYWOOD—Joan Crawford's reason for turning down Lady in a Cage was because it was too much like the role she played in What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? Joan has no intention of being typed as a gruesome grand guignol character... but it will be a refreshing change for Olivia De Havilland.

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton took a Sunday off from filming VIPS in Britain to go pub-crawling at Maldenhead, a nice car drive from their London hotel. It was tankards up all the way, with Liz wisely deciding not to match Richard pint for pint.

At this writing, no one seems to know where Sybil Burton is. I'd guess she has taken the children to the Burton chalet in Switzerland for the holidays. I wonder if she still says, "Elizabeth is a good friend of mine?"

(Two Break who, after three decades in England, returned here for a role in The Last of Adrian Messenger, told them back in London what had surprised him most in Hollywood. The house he had bought in 1924 for $2,500 is now valued at close to $30,000. "If only I had bought real estate then—and kept it," wailed the 75-year-old star.

Hermione Gingold takes over the mother part in Oh Dad, Poor Dad the day after Christmas in New York. Hermione first appeared in Manhattan in John Anderson's Almanack with a bright newcomer, Harry Belafonte.

Anthony Quinn, because of having to co-star with Ingrid Bergman in The Visit, had to give up his Killing a Mouse movie. Gregory Peck will play the part instead. Tony's company is co-producer and Greg will be working for Quinn. And he's looking forward to the assignment, because of the good script.

I believe Gregory Peck's To Kill a Mockingbird will be the movie to beat for the Oscar. I haven't seen anything as charming all year.

Charles Boyer, marooned happily in New York with his Lord Pongo play which took a strong turn upward at the box office after the visit of Mrs. John Kennedy, is eagerly awaiting the Christmas visit of wife Pat and son Michael.

Maureen O'Sullivan came down with a severe case of laryngitis but as far as I know she has not yet missed any performances in Never Too Late, her smash comedy hit with Paul Ford on Broadway. The cold weather last week felled quite a few performers in New York, among them Pat Medina.

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Express disclosed yesterday the Soviet government paid it £20,000 ($40,000) to print the full text of Nikita Khrushchev's Supreme Soviet address of Dec. 12. The first instalment of the speech, occupying two full pages, appeared in the paper Wednesday. The rest of the text, another two pages, appeared yesterday. The Express says in a special front-page announcement the advertisement was placed by the Soviet Novosti press agency. The price for the four pages, says The Express, "was in accordance with the full rate of paid advertising."

TCA President Wartime Angel

MONTREAL (CP)—A visiting British rabbi has found the former RCAF officer he says saved thousands of lives in the days after Belsen concentration camp was liberated in the spring of 1945.

The former officer is Gordon McGregor, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines. Rabbi Leslie Hardman met him again yesterday as a result of newspaper stories published last week.

Rabbi Hardman, a former British Army chaplain, said last week he didn't remember the names of the Canadians, encouraged by a sympathetic officer, who gave food, medical supplies and cigarettes to inmates of the German concentration camp.

"But I'd just like to shake them by the hand," he said. He was here to address a meeting of former concentration camp inmates.

Of the three RCAF wing commanders in the area at the time, only Mr. McGregor, then commanding officer of 126 wing, remembered Rabbi Hardman.

Mr. McGregor said at Thursday's reunion, "I remember him, but I doubt if he remembers me. I'm wearing slightly different clothes."

Rabbi Hardman said, "What impressed me most was that the Canadians got more unofficial help to the inmates in 24 hours than the British had been able to get in an official way in a week."

The reunion took place in the modern, plush-carpeted office of the TCA president on the 39th floor of the Place Ville Marie skyscraper—a much different scene from that of their last meeting.

Mr. McGregor, poring over his wartime log book, found the spot where Rabbi Hardman and he met each other the first time.

"We were flying Spitfire Mark Nines," he said to the rabbi.

"Yes," replied Rabbi Hardman, "today they give models of them to the children to play with at Christmas."

Pair Loses Appeal On Murder Charge

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta Court of Appeal rejected Thursday an appeal by two men convicted of capital murder and sentenced to be hanged for the slaying of an Edmonton golf professional, whose body has not been found.

The judgment was handed down by Chief Justice Bruce Smith.

Raymond Daniel Workman, 44, and William Huculak, 29, both of Edmonton, were convicted in September of the murder of Frank Willey, 48, Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain sentenced them to be hanged Jan. 9.

The judgment of the five Alberta Supreme Court justices who heard the appeal was unanimous. It said the evidence in the case was overwhelming and there was "nothing substantially wrong and no miscarriage of justice in the trial."

During the appeal, which ended Nov. 15, defence counsel argued that the matter of proof as to whether Willey was dead still was outstanding.

They also said lawyer Frank Pawlowski had violated legal privilege by stating during the trial that he had a conversation 14 months before the murder with Workman concerning Mrs.

Willey and her husband's estate.

Willey was last seen April 19 when he left home to deliver a set of golf clubs ordered by telephone.

During an eight-day trial evidence was that the motive for the killing was Workman's familiarity with Mrs. Willey.

Victorians Check U.S. Status

More than 20 Victorians seeking information on their status in the U.S. social security program called on representative William Pierson at the U.S. Immigration office on Belleville Street yesterday.

Mr. Pierson comes to Victoria every three months from the social security office in Bellingham to answer questions of Canadians who once worked in the U.S. and of Americans living in Victoria.

"Forms and applications are complex to handle by mail," he said. "These personal visits expedite our work, and make it more convenient for the people here."

Fun for Dennis

One of 150 Greater Victoria children who were entertained at a Christmas party at HMCS Naden Wednesday was Dennis, 7, who here gets a ride on a hobby horse under the watchful eye of PO Paul Lother. Sponsored by the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy, this was the first of three parties put on by the navy for Victoria children.

Investigators Discover Trades Licence Rules

An oversight resulted in two Victoria private investigators being fined $35 each in Saanich police court yesterday.

Both men, Kenneth Hardon of 3225 Pat Bay Highway, and Michael Griffith-Warwick of 322 Dalton, pleaded guilty.

They were charged with carrying on a business of private investigation in Saanich without a trades licence.

Both work for Research Service Ltd., of 745 Yates, a private investigation firm.

"We were under the assumption that we had a licence to operate anywhere in B.C.," Griffith-Warwick said.

The fines, which he said would be paid by the firm, were the minimum of $35 each provided under the covering bylaw, and $10 for the cost of a licence for the last six months.

Magistrate William Ostler was assured that the firm has now applied for a licence.

Police uncovered the facts when a citizen complained about two men "prowling" around her house, prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said.

At the scene, one of the private investigators told police he "believed the man he was following was in the house."

The doorknob had been rung at 5 a.m., the court heard, and then the men went back and knocked at 7:30 a.m. when the police were called.

Man Faces Sentencing On Cheque Charges

John Wood, 7022 East Saanich Road, was found guilty in city magistrate's court yesterday on three counts of uttering forged documents.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Magistrate A. I. Thomas. "You are guilty as charged."

Sweaterful Results In $50 Fine

A 59-year-old woman who pleaded guilty to shoplifting a sweaterful of articles worth $12.30 was fined $50 in city magistrate's court yesterday.

Mrs. Florence Joyce, 1093 Foul Bay, admitted she had stuffed two ribbons, a girdle, a key case, four books, a candle holder and five pairs of stockings into her sweater in the F. W. Woolworth Company store at 1204 Douglas.

She fastened her sweater to her skirt with nine safety pins to keep the loot from falling out.

"It appears you are accustomed to this sort of thing," Magistrate William Ostler said.

"I've never done it before," Mrs. Joyce said. "I won't do it again... ever."

Wood was remanded to Dec. 27 for sentence, awaiting probation report. Magistrate Thomas said the case would then be remanded to Jan. 3, because probation report would probably not be ready until then.

Wood was found guilty of cashing forged cheques totalling $388 in November.

Magistrate William Ostler dismissed a charge of attempted theft against Alyffe Adeson Hulbert, 99 West Gorge.

"I find myself with reasonable doubt," the magistrate said.

Hulbert had been charged with attempting to rob the cash register at Al's Esso service station, 1700 Hillside at 3:20 a.m., Dec. 5.

When attendant Edward Stockand saw Hulbert in the service station office, he thought he was trying to break into the cash register.

Hulbert had previously testified that he had been drinking and had tripped over a small cement step on entering the office. This caused him to fall against the cash register, he said.

Consulate Stormed Students Protest U.S. Mission

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—A stone-throwing mob of students Thursday stormed the U.S. consulate building, smashed windows, burned an outbuilding and ripped down the American flag.

The 200 African and European students outnumbered police around the two-story colonial structure but a Katangese captain refused to let the military guard at the nearby palace of President Moise Tshombe help.

The students from Katanga University were protesting U.S. efforts to force Katanga to end its secession from the Congo.

There were no reports of injuries although several demonstrators were roughed up by police who finally fired shots in the air to disperse the crowd.

The riotous anti-American demonstration followed an announcement that the United States is sending a military mission to Leopoldville.

was reported to have declared Wednesday that he would order a "scorched earth" policy.

Washington Lodges Objection

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Thursday protested Katangese student attacks on the U.S. consulate at Elisabethville and sent a military mission to the Congo to look into American aid to United Nations operations there.

State department spokesman Lincoln White said the protest lodged with Katanga asked provincial officials to "take rapid steps to repair the damage wrought by stone-throwing students when they stormed the consulate."

The U.S. mission to the Congo was headed by Lt. Gen. L. W. Truman.

rather than submit to U.S. and UN pressures for the reunification of Katanga and the rest of the Congo.

The demonstration started as a march through the city streets, with the students chanting "Down with Kennedy, the American Imperialist," "Let's bash the consul's head in," and "No GIs in Katanga." Some students also carried placards reading: "No Hiroshima in Katanga."

Warned of the mob's impending arrival, the consulate staff locked the compound's five-foot-high iron gates. Consul John Dean and other members on the consulate stepped out on a balcony to watch.

The first barrage of stones sent Dean and the others ducking inside the building.

Cars Cause Uproar On Beach

The problem was referred to the parks committee with a recommendation that a sign forbidding use of the beach be posted.

Gay Christmas Yet

Help Showered on Fire Victims

Friends and strangers yesterday went to the aid of a McChesin family of five whose home was damaged and Christmas presents ruined by fire.

Terry White, 22, of 3763 Duke Road, was thankful for the assistance and said all his family is short of now is clothing for himself. He wears size 40 jackets and size 10-11 shoes.

His three sons will have a merry Christmas at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George White, 3467 Happy Valley Road.

A DeMolay spokesman who read yesterday's Colonist story about the family being left homeless by the fire, reported that there were a number of toys left over from the DeMolay-Salvation Army toy repair workshop at the Town and Country shopping centre and that the White family could have their pick.

Friends of Mrs. White fitted her out with some of their clothes, and a stranger left a jar of jam for her at the place where she works.

Children's clothing was salvaged from the smoke-filled White residence, and insurance money may cover the cost of smoke damage to the furniture.

Thanks to all the help, it looks as if his family will have a good Christmas after all, said Mr. White.

Three Men Nabbed for Selling Nike Blueprints to 'Cuban'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — City police Thursday arrested three men who they said were attempting to sell Nike missile blueprints to a Cuban man believed to be an agent for Premier Fidel Castro.

Officers said the blueprints were stolen from the Vickers plant here which manufactures parts for various missiles and military and civilian aircraft.

The men were identified as Homer Lee Young, 45; James W. Causey, Jr., 22, and Anthony M. Whitehead, 20, a Vickers employee.

Police said the three, who sought $600,000 for the blueprints, were charged with grand larceny.

The FBI said the group tried to sell the blueprints to a former Cuban resident who now lives in Jackson.

The Cuban, who was not identified, reported the attempt to the FBI and "went along" with the men until the arrests were made.

The FBI handed its evidence over to city officials for prosecution. The justice department held there was no violation of federal espionage laws.

Silver Dollars Vanish

OTTAWA (CP)—Kids, don't be disappointed if Uncle Jim does not shell out with silver dollars this Christmas.

He tried and tried to find some. But the banks had none. The banks tried, too, but the mint at Ottawa was too busy this year making pennies, nickels and dimes.

That's the sad story across Canada this Christmas, as it has been for most of this year. Bankers say the big shiny coins are snapped up as soon as they appear.

"They have become collectors' items," agrees N. A. Parker, head of the Royal Canadian Mint.

There are lots of silver dollars in Canada—somewhere.

Apparently they have disappeared, perhaps into children's banks or other household hiding places.

Ransom Loaded

Huge freight planes pile up mountain of medicine and foodstuffs destined for Cuba as ransom for 1,113 Cuban prisoners of April, 1961, Bay of Pigs invasion attempt. Supplies await result of release negotiations, now believed almost complete.

To Assess Needs

Aldermen Plan Tour Of Jail Facilities

City aldermen will shortly tour the jail and other police station accommodation to make an on-the-spot assessment of what renovation is needed.

The decision followed approval by council of a police commission request that an architect be engaged right away to plan improvements to existing accommodation.

FACELIFT NEEDED

"There's no doubt that the whole police station needs a facelift," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood. "But I would like to tour the building and possibly all aldermen would benefit from a visit before final decision is made on work to be carried out."

There was general agreement among council members that renovation of the accommodation was long overdue.

But Ald. J. L. W. McLean said he wondered if the cost of engaging an architect was justified in what was to be "obviously just an interim measure."

LONG-TERM PLAN?

"Is there any long-term overall plan for the police station?" he asked. "If this is the case it could turn out to be expensive to the city."

Mayor R. B. Wilson said it was imperative that the survey by and architect of accommodation needs to be carried out now.

INCLUDE IN BUDGET

"The police commission is anxious to include a sum for the most urgently required renovation work in its budget for 1963," the mayor said.

"Failure to do so will just mean that another year will go by before this condition is corrected."

He described the hiring of an architect as "a preliminary center to find out what can be done to improve the accommodation" in the police station.

UNDER CRITICISM

Both jail and court as well as police accommodation has been the subject of criticism from several quarters in recent months.

Ald. Edgewood was given the job of arranging a tour of the building for members of council.

Smokers' Grades Lowest

TORONTO (UPI)—A survey published in the Canadian Journal of Public Health claims that high school students who smoke usually occupy the bottom of their class.

A study of students by the Calgary, Alta., health department, showed that more than one-third of the "smokers" obtained less than 40 per cent in examinations.

Conversely, the Journal said, the survey disclosed that almost 80 per cent of honor students were non-smokers.

It said that 77 per cent of honor students had never smoked, 23 per cent smoked, and the other 14 per cent had smoked at one time but had given up the habit.

INVERMERE, B.C. — Moses

Jimmy, about 50, was charged with capital murder here following the death Wednesday of a 25-year-old woman on the Columbia Lake Indian Reservation. Her name was not released.

Grant Delay Hurts Budgeting

Authority to write Esquimalt's member of Parliament explaining difficulties of obtaining payment of federal grants was given to Reeve A. C. Wurtele by Esquimalt council last night.

Grants are paid to the municipality each year by the federal government in lieu of taxes on government land in Esquimalt. The municipality's complaint is that they are paid after the budget estimate had been submitted.

"This makes it difficult to lay down a budget," said Coun. G. K. Sammon. "The federal grants are in lieu of taxes and should be paid in the same calendar year."

Esquimalt Puts Tag On Grant

Approval of payment of a grant to Goodwill Enterprises was given by Esquimalt council last night with some reservations.

The grant—which is paid to the organization in lieu of taxes—was agreed upon by all municipalities earlier in the year.

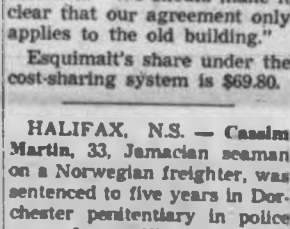

"When they get into a new building this will rise to quite an amount," said Coun. G. K. Sammon. "We should make it clear that our agreement only applies to the old building."

Esquimalt's share under the cost-sharing system is $69.80.

Bell Peals

Hush Greet Bishop

The new Roman Catholic bishop of Victoria was 10 minutes late in arriving, but when he drew up in a huge grey limousine an expectant hush fell over the 300 people gathered to greet him outside the bishop's residence on View Street.

A single bell pealed from St. Andrew's Cathedral and at 3:10 p.m. yesterday His Excellency, Most Rev. Remi Joseph De Roo (pronounced De Rowe) stepped lightly from the car.

He was closely followed by Vancouver Coadjutor Archbishop Martin Johnston.

FRIENDS WAITING
Fifty-four priests of the Victoria diocese were waiting for that moment. With happy smiles on their faces, they stepped out on the front porch, respectfully waiting their turn to greet their new bishop.

Girls and boys from three Roman Catholic schools sang in greeting.

Bishop De Roo, who wore a shy smile throughout the enthusiastic reception, stepped down again to the walkway to his residence where he chatted amiably with several of the children.

Up on the porch again, Bishop De Roo's ring was kissed by about two dozen kneeling priests who crowded around him.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes received Bishop De Roo for 25 minutes during the afternoon at Government House.

"VERY HUMAN"
"He is very charming, very human, a very understanding gentleman who I'm sure will lend inspiration to all of his faith in the Victoria diocese," said the lieutenant-governor after the bishop's party had left to attend a clergy dinner at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Part of the new bishop's family came with him to the city to witness his installation last night.

They were the bishop's father, Raymond De Roo of St. Boniface; a brother, Rev. Cyril De Roo of Winnipeg, and two sisters, Sister Mary Raymond and Mrs. Stanley Martinez and her husband.

Fine Farm Safe

The show farm of the Saanich Peninsula, Woodwyn Farm, has been taken off the real estate market, Mrs. Ruth Woodward told the Colonist last night.

Civic officials and planners breathed a sigh of relief at news that the 285-acre estate will not be sold for subdivision.

The estate of the late Hon. W. C. Woodward, former lieutenant-governor of B.C., was on the market for more than a year with a price tag of $450,000.

"NICEST PRESENT"
Removal of the listing is "the nicest Christmas present we have had yet in Central Saanich," said a jubilant Reeve R. Gordon Lee.

Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said, "I am sure the board will be pleased that this fine piece of property is safe for some time longer."

Mrs. Woodward earlier had planned to move to the mainland if a buyer was found for the show farm where British royalty was entertained during visits to British Columbia. "It was my home, my husband and I made it. I've lived here for 30 years. I've gotten

Reeve Backs, Sidesteps Chilly Dip
Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night joined with Esquimalt council, in approving Esquimalt Peninsula Club's request to use Gorge Park for a chilly Boxing Day dip but gracefully declined a suggestion that he participate.

Cous. C. A. Field, chairman of the parks committee read the request to council.

"The swim is between noon and 1 p.m. if you'd care to join them, Mr. Reeve," he said.

Reeve Wurtele chuckled then moved on to the next order of business.

Siamese All Wound Up

A Siamese cat named Pywacket collected an early Christmas present for himself Wednesday night. He came home with a wrist watch around his neck.

"When he returned home around midnight he had the expansion bracelet and watch around his neck," said Mrs. Fraser.

"It didn't seem to bother him and we didn't notice it at first," she said. "But when my husband picked him up he saw it and thought at first it was a fancy cat collar."

"It's a good watch," she said, "but nobody has come to claim it yet. Someone must have put it around his neck as a joke and didn't get a chance to take it off before he ran away. He must have been a fair distance from home when it happened, because most of the neighbors know him."

"He's quite a friendly cat," said Mrs. Fraser. "He will go and visit wherever he finds a door open; he's not too particular."

The Frasers are still trying to find the owner.

Hospital-Home Plan Put Before Council

By IAN STREET

Plans for a $1,000,000 project consisting of homes for old people situated close by a 75-bed private hospital were disclosed at yesterday's city council meeting.

Council decided not to act upon a recommendation from the advisory planning commission that the developer's application for the necessary rezoning be turned down.

Instead it asked the commission to hold another meeting to discuss all aspects of the scheme more fully.

The move prompted Ald. Millard Mooney, one of five city council members who sit on the advisory body, to remark that it was apparent "the aldermen have been well lobbied."

Values Might Be Hit

It added: "The newly-created subdivision, comprising 17 lots on which the applicant holds an option, is surrounded by good, well-kept family homes."

"The values of these homes, in the opinion of the commission, might be detrimentally affected by the creation of a private hospital on the property in question."

Ald. A. W. Toone, also a member of the commission, proposed that the applicants receive a hearing in person so that they could explain the ramifications of the scheme.

"These people have an option on the entire subdivision," he said.

"The private hospital is not the whole project. I gather that homes for elderly couples are planned adjacent to the hospital. The occupants will be able to obtain immediate medical attention for conditions such as heart disease by merely pushing a button," said Ald. Toone.

"If It's for Health"

He said it was quite proper that a residential zone should include "amenities catering to health and welfare of residents."

"Does that mean you want a private hospital in every residential district from James Bay to Uplands?" said Ald. Mooney.

"Most definitely," fired back Ald. Toone, "if it's for the health and welfare of the people living there."

The application for rezoning the property was filed by Glenagarry Private Hospital Ltd. Council was told that a similar application for another piece of property had been turned down by provincial authorities because it was adjacent to an existing private hospital.

Hearing Ends

Dootson Sent To Trial

Attack victim Robert Robinson has no recollection of events leading to his serious injuries, Saanich police court heard yesterday.

The testimony came in the preliminary hearing of evidence against 35-year-old psychiatric aide Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attempting to murder Robinson.

HIGHER COURT
Dootson was committed for higher court trial yesterday.

Dr. James Cupples, 2833 Dufferin, who has been treating Robinson during the two months he has been in hospital, said that he felt the injured man could be in a position to testify "approximately three months from now."

CAN'T REMEMBER
Asked by prosecutor Kenneth Murphy if Robinson had any recollection of the events of the evening before he was found injured, Dr. Cupples said "not at the present time."

Robinson was discovered early Oct. 19 lying on a burning mattress in his room at the staff house at Colquhoun Mental Home.

PARTLY CONSCIOUS
He was partly conscious when found, but had a badly beaten face, a broken arm, burned head and a badly charred ear.

Dootson is charged with attempting to murder Robinson by hitting him with a blunt instrument and setting fire to him. Dr. Cupples also testified that recent X-rays taken of Robinson's head show "no evidence" of any fracture.

NOT CONCLUSIVE
The X-rays "were not conclusive," he said, because Robinson couldn't be positioned properly on the X-ray table.

However, it may never be known if Robinson had a small head fracture, he suggested, because it could have healed and would not show in an X-ray.

BLAZING TAIL
Edward Fennell, Vancouver city analyst, testified that he found human bloodstains on a pair of pants entered in evidence.

Custom Renewed

Mayer R. B. Wilson's door will be open to all civic employees between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. today, receiving an old city hall custom at Christmas after a lapse of 10 years.

"All members of both inside and outside staffs are welcome to drop in and say hello," the mayor said yesterday. Other members of city council will be on hand.

The custom was dropped when Mayor Claude Harrison took office in 1952 and was renewed only this year.

Scion of Noted Family New County Court Judge

A Victoria lawyer whose family has been associated with law in Victoria for more than 100 years, Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, yesterday was appointed judge of county court here.

Appointment of Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake to succeed retiring Judge J. B. Clearhue, was announced by Justice Minister Donald Fleming.

Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake's latest legal partnership here was as a member of the firm of Manser, Drake, Wootton, Patterson and Macdonald. He is prominently associated with various social and civic activities in Victoria.

"GOOD WILL"
Attorney General Robert Benson said of the appointment: "Marvelous. I am sure Mr. Drake will add lustre to county court. I am sure he will have the good will of members of the bar."

"Opportunity for all young and active members of the bar to reach the bench, which is a very trying job, should deserve the active support of the bar. The whole concept deserves encouragement."

NOTED FAMILY
The new county court judge is the grandson of Montague William Tyrwhitt-Drake, who came to Victoria from England in 1858 and served here as Attorney-General and judge of the Supreme Court of B.C.

He is the son of the late Brian H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who was Supreme Court registrar from the turn of the century to 1937.

Montague Lawrence Tyrwhitt-Drake was born in Victoria on Oct. 24, 1922. He was educated at St. Michael's School for Boys in Victoria, and at Shawinigan Lake School.

He attended Victoria College and McGill University. He is a Canadian army veteran, serving as a member of the Canadian Black Watch with various British Infantry battalions from 1943 to 1946.

He received his law degree at the University of B.C. after the end of the Second World War. He was called to the bar of B.C. in 1949 and to the Ontario bar in 1950.

STAFF NOTEBOOK

Cat-Napper Appears Laundry Staff Panics

By Ted Shackleford

CAT'S PJAMAS: We hear a city laundry had to send two female employees home early the other day—suffering from shock. The laundry supplies bags to customers to put their dirty linen in and the bags and arms, collecting them. So far so good, but when the two women were emptying one particular bag they noticed some of the clothes moving. PANIC. It turned out to be the family cat which had picked the bag for a cosy snooze.

FOUND IN PANING: Manager A. P. Glade (Victoria) fruit wholesalers, is George Fears.

LONG LOW WHISTLE: Had a reader ask us why the Lucky Lager Brewery on Government Street doesn't blow its whistle at 8 a.m., noon, 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. as it used to do we checked with Walter Apperholt, brewmaster, and he said the answer is that the brewery does still sound the four signals but the whistle used is a little quieter than the one which blows the city's never-enforced curfew for children at 9:30 p.m.

CLUB DATE: Victoria Improviser Bert Blissy is puzzled by something that happened over the weekend. He booked Grace Turkey's puppet show for a private party in the Sirocco Club Dec. 16, but somehow Grace got her dates mixed and turned up on the 15th. She was greeted at the door by a man who was looking for "the other entertainer" and did her show and left. When she didn't appear at the Sirocco for the Dec. 16 party, Bert ran around town looking for her to straighten it out. Now he's wondering who was the missing entertainer. Grace accidentally replaced Dec. 15.

DENNIS YOUNG

Appointment Confirmed

City council yesterday, as expected, confirmed the appointment of Dennis Young, 29, as city manager to succeed C. C. Wyatt, who retires next July.

Following the closed committee meeting at which the decision was taken, Mayor R. B. Wilson said council had agreed to all but one of the "standard requirements" set out by Mr. Young in his letter of acceptance.

Still to be settled is the matter of salary differential between city manager and various department heads at city hall. The mayor said council decided not to approve the original suggestion made by Mr. Young in this regard, but would discuss the matter further.

Mr. Young this week resigned his job as treasurer and commissioner of finance for the city of Hamilton. He had held the post for two years, since leaving Victoria where he served as city comptroller-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Simmons, who were married on Christmas Day in 1912 in the old St. Barnabas' Church on Cook Street by the late Rev. E. G. Miller, have come from Seattle where they now live to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. They will receive their friends at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. Simmons, 2999 East-downe, on Boxing Day, Dec. 26, from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening. The Simmons have another son, Harold, and six grandchildren.—(Ryan Bros.)

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible that men go through the menopause as women do?

My husband is 50. We have four grown children and seven grandchildren. Our lovely home is paid for, we have no financial worries and this should be, as the poets say, "the time of life for which the first was made."

About two years ago my husband began to get cranky and irritable. He found fault with my cooking, fussed about the way his shirts looked, complained that his hair-dresser was not doing a good job. During the presidential elections he fought with everyone. He didn't like Kennedy or Nixon and finally voted for his own write-in candidate—Hoot Gibson.

These last few months he has become sullen and withdrawn. He has lost interest in poker, bowling and lodge work. His personality is totally different from what it was three years ago. Can it be the male menopause?—MRS. L.K.

Dear Mrs. L.K.: Men do not experience menopause in the same sense that women do. The personality change you describe sometimes occurs in men when they reach their mid-40s or early 50s, which is the corresponding age for "the change" in women.

Your husband should have a complete physical check-up. If nothing is organically wrong, the physician probably will recommend a psychiatrist.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son delivers papers and takes his job seriously. The problem I am writing about is the lack of consideration shown by some of his customers.

Ben's territory includes many apartment buildings. People move out left and right, leaving no forwarding address, and Ben gets stuck with the bill. Maybe they don't realize it's the carrier boy who is left holding the bag.

Then there are always folks who are slow-pay and the boy has to come back two and three times to get his money. This isn't fair. Ben has had to travel many extra miles, doubling back for collections—in all kinds of weather.

I wish you'd remind people, Ann, that the carrier boy is trying to be a good little businessman and he deserves a break. Thank you—D.L.

Dear D.L.: The carrier boys are industrious youngsters who should be rewarded for

Fresh Fruit Doubles In Decorative Role

Tired of the hectic wrapping, mailing, decorating and shopping, last Sunday my friend Daphne decided to go for a ride in the country.

The mist was on the tree-tops, there was snow on the mountains and a touch of frost in the air. It really felt like Christmas.

And, you guessed it, Sunday, country drive, and all, we did some Christmas shopping after all.

We found a huge selection of the best fruits and vegetables we'd ever seen. They were so delicious and fresh-looking, they could even be used for decorations.

VEGETABLE-FRUIT DECOR
To a base of well-soaked cedar boughs placed in a large bowl, add a fancy pineapple to the centre and flank it with super-sized green and red peppers (35c lb.), deep green avocados (35c each), oranges at 59c a dozen—which have the brightest orange color imaginable—and bunches of bananas (2 lbs. for 43c).

This colorful bowl will look lovely in your dining room or living room when guests arrive, and you can touch it up with the odd bit of holly, or sprinkle on some mixed nuts (79c lb.).

Best of all it's ideal for the busy housewife who doesn't have time to change the fruit every day, as all these fruits and vegetables will keep for days.

CHRISTMAS APPETIZER
Apart from the best vegetables we've ever seen, Daphne and I devoured several ounces of the most delicious cheese spread. Quite nippy and different to taste, it is easy to spread on crackers—to serve with drinks, and men are sure to love it.

Idea is to whip 1/2 lb. Philadelphia cream cheese (39c 1/2 lb.) with 2 oz each of Roquefort (22c for 2oz) and blue cheese (45c 1/2 lb.). After it is thoroughly creamed add 1/2 tsp. each of celery salt, garlic salt or powder, Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 cup crushed pineapple, and 2 tsp. chopped sweet red pepper or canned pimento. Chill. Shape into a ball (makes 2 or 3 large ones), and roll in finely chopped toasted nuts.

Not only will this cheese mixture look attractive in the centre of a large tray of hors d'oeuvres (with bread-and-butter knives to accompany it) but it goes a long way and tastes tremendous on any kind of cracker.

Help your holiday visitors to find your house by painting luminous paint on your house number. A small vial of the blue-white shining paint cost only 25c and will make it so simple for people to find their way.

If you're expecting any elderly people who have difficulty finding steps in the dark, a little strip of luminous paint—or just white paint—on the edge of the stairs will do the trick. This paint will only last for two or three weeks (in Victoria weather...) so there's no worry of it remaining all year.

Still wondering what to get mother or grandmother for Christmas? Plants, particularly poinsettias, are always a welcome gift, especially if they are bright and healthy looking like those I saw—and listen to the prices!

Fibrous begonias, which will bloom for two months and last for years, are priced at 59c. A large variety of cyclamens at $1.19 a plant come in purples, cerise and white with up to nine and ten blossoms on each plant. Large poinsettias are $1.75.

Most impressive were potted mums at only $1.99, again with over ten flowers a plant, with buds to come. These tall decorative flowers, come in shades of purple, peach, yellow and white, and can be transplanted later to the garden.

CACTUS LOGS

Or if you're a friend who's fond of cactus, cacti (?), interesting looking cactus logs are selling at $1.49, or small cactus for 39c. Dozen of flowers are blooming from the azaleas, priced at $2.50, and there's a variety of small plants and ferns, ideal gifts for children to give, for 39c and 89c.

Warning to Pet Lovers: No turkey or chicken bones for Bowser or The Cat as they splinter easily and rupture the animal's insides. Budgie owners, too, watch that the bird doesn't land on the tree or eat any decorations—especially tinsel, which will endanger his life.

Arriving Saturday

Miss Shirley Pope will arrive on Saturday from Tacoma to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. J. G. Pope, Moss Street. Mrs. Pope will entertain for her daughter on Sunday afternoon.

Christmas in Vancouver

Joining the ranks of Christmas travellers are Commodore V. S. Godfrey and Mrs. Godfrey, 1004 Terrace Avenue who will go to Vancouver to spend Dec. 25 with their family. Mr. and Mrs. John Godfrey and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Powell and their children.

European Festivals Emphasize Religion

Christmas festivities in Italy, Poland and Norway were described by women whose origins were of those countries at the University Women's Club meeting at Gordon Head campus.

Mrs. E. Kenda of Poland described Christmas in her country as a holiday of love, peace and giving. A holiday for the family where it is not the general practice to give and receive gifts.

"It is primarily a religious observance. The season begins four weeks prior and in this Advent period there are no weddings, balls or parties."

VIGIL

"Christmas Eve the Vigil is observed. Sheaves of wheat, oats and barley are placed in the home to insure good luck for the year. Some of this grain is given to the animals and tied around the fruit trees to bring increased yields."

"Early in the evening the children are sent to watch for the first star—commemorating the star of Bethlehem. Then the feast is spread, beginning with blessed bread. Food on 12 plates are placed in memory of the apostles and extra places set in memory of those in need. At midnight everyone goes to the mass of the Shepherds."

ITALY

Mrs. Yolande McKimmie of Italy said Christmas was also a religious observance and that a great deal of it was spent in church with the festive part being more for children.

"Christmas dinner consists of spaghetti with a fish sauce because abstinence from meat is still observed—called the White Dinner. On Christmas Day fasting ends so there is turkey, ham and other foods."

LUCKY ASHES

"A bonfire is lit in the town square and when it dies down the people gather the ashes for luck. Ashes from individual hearths are treated in the same manner."

"A tree is trimmed with chocolates and a creche set up in one corner. On Jan. 6, Epiphany, when the Wise Men brought gifts to the Christ child, presents are given and the children hang stockings. The tree is dismantled this day."

Mrs. R. Jorde of Norway described a rural Christmas. Two weeks before the women clean the homes thoroughly, make the yearly supply of ale and bake. Finished baked goods are put in a special house outdoors.

Christmas Eve afternoon the tree is brought in. Wheat is put on a pole for birds, and the barnyard animals given special treats.

ANGEL TOP

"The Christmas tree must always have an angel at the top and a star somewhere in the branches along with small Norwegian flags in appreciation of the fact that they are a free people."

"The table is set with an embroidered cloth and spare-ribs are the food most in evidence. After dinner gifts are given and carols sung. Festivities on this day are confined to the family. The next two weeks are for visiting and entertainment."

"Christmas morning it is one's privilege to have break-

West Rejects Plan For Unpoliced Ban

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said Thursday it will stop all nuclear testing by Jan. 1 only if the United States and Britain formally pledge to do the same. The Western powers rejected any idea of an unpoliced moratorium.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the statement in the year's last meeting of the 17-nation disarmament talks. The talks recessed for Christmas and are scheduled to resume Jan. 15. The recess found the negotiations still in deadlock and the final 1962 session was marked by a flurry of harsh words.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

Tsarapkin's statement conflicted with reports from London that the United States and Britain regard as imminent a one-sided Soviet declaration to stop testing.

Diplomatic sources in London said the two Western powers anticipated such a Soviet move after analyzing Tsarapkin's remarks during the last phase of the Geneva talks. They consider this a Soviet attempt to get around test ban controls and on-site inspection. The Soviet Union has repeatedly rejected Western requirements for policing a test ban.

HAS MOTIVE

Western spokesmen in Geneva said the Soviet Union apparently expects to gain public support by being the first to stop testing and thereby put pressure on the United States and Britain to follow suit.

Police Seek Witness To Accident

Saanich police last night appealed for help in locating a witness to an accident at Cedar Hill Crossroad and Blenkinsop at 5:15 p.m. yesterday.

Robert Palmer, 15, of 3909 Cedar Hill Crossroad, suffered abrasions when a car collided with his bicycle and he was thrown to the road.

Police said last night a woman driver, parked at the scene helped the boy but left before police could obtain her name and address. They have asked her to identify herself.

Lost Blood Only Gain For Burglar

A short-sighted burglar had only some bleeding cuts for his trouble when he tried to enter a downtown garage through a rear window just before 2 a.m. yesterday.

When he broke the window on the east side of National Motors, 837 View, cutting himself in the process, he apparently did not notice the size of it.

It was only 10 by 12 inches, much too small to get through. The window still had fresh blood on it when police arrived.

35th in Blast Series Set Off by Russians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia set off a low-yield nuclear device in the Arctic atmosphere Thursday, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported.

It was the 35th announced test in the current Soviet series, and the third in as many days. Two explosions were detected by this country Tuesday.

Yesterday's blast was over Novaya Zemlya, the Russian test site in the Arctic. Low yield is the equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

Snow Removal Ways 50 Years Behind

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council says most Canadian municipalities with snow removal problems are using facilities designed to meet conditions of 20 to 50 years ago.

The council hopes its research program will "bring to those responsible for snow and ice removal the information they require to do their job with maximum effectiveness."

Snow removal authorities have applied imagination and initiative "within their budgets" to develop ways to remove snow.

LACK INFORMATION

However, the council says, they lack information on real savings resulting from snow-free roads and on equipment and techniques for removal.

SWISS REPORTS

As a result NRC offers two new reports by the Society of Swiss Snow and Avalanche Research Institute, translated into English. One deals with the melting action of salt and provides information for choosing the most effective salt for a given situation and the amount required. The other deals with Swiss experience in combatting snow drifting and icing with fences, sanding, salting and heating installations.

Thieves Rob Machines In Pool Hall

Thieves looted an unknown sum of silver from coin machines in a Victoria billiard hall early yesterday morning.

The money was stolen from Gold Crown Billiards, 607 Yates.

Machines for vending cigarettes, soft drinks and coffee, as well as a gun and pinball machine were forced open.

Entry to the premises had been made by breaking glass in a rear exit door, reaching in and releasing the catch, police said.

Some Value in Probe—Peterson

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday there "may be some value" in launching an inquiry into the use of court injunctions which affect picketing and other union activities.

His statement came a day after a B.C. Federation of Labor delegation asked the cabinet to appoint one of two well known Canadian labor experts to conduct a royal commission into the question of injunctions.

They sought the appointment of Dr. John Deutsch, former head of the UBC economics department and now at Queens University, or Dr. Carl Goldenberg, Montreal lawyer-economist.

Rail Abandonment Hurting Prairies

By RON MACDONALD
REGINA (CPI)—Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba governments decided Thursday to ask for an immediate meeting with the federal government to discuss railway companies' abandonment of uneconomic lines on the Prairies. They also decided to call for a temporary halt to line abandonment, including those already approved

TOP LEVEL MEETINGS

The decisions were reached at

Woodrow Lloyd of Saskatchewan, Premier Duff Roblin of

Gordon Taylor of Alberta and 20 non-government organiza-

In Ottawa, Transport Minister

Balcer announced yesterday that the great majority of railway

applications to abandon branch lines will be subject to an overall review by the board of transport commissioners and will not be dealt with "in any precipitate fashion."

COMPLETE WILLINGNESS

He said the presidents of the

CNR and CPR "have indicated their complete willingness to assist in trying to effect an appropriate solution" to the problem of large scale abandonment of branch lines.

The organizations, representing grain-growing, municipal and urban interests, called for an immediate halt to "the present piecemeal consideration of all rail abandonments," and asked for federal government planning in the field.

Premier Lloyd, who proposed

Thursday's conference, said it was called because Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways had not waited for federal legislation on rail abandonment but had begun dropping uneconomic lines one by one through applications filed with the federal board of transport commissioners.

Loans to Assist Rental Housing

OTTAWA (UPI)—Public Works Minister E. Davie Fulton yesterday announced new federal lending facilities for private rental housing developments in a move he hopes will eliminate the development of "shanty towns" and sub-standard housing.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has been authorized to consider applications for privately-sponsored rental housing projects, where the applicant can establish he cannot build an "otherwise acceptable project" because he cannot get a loan from an approved lender. Mr. Fulton said direct National Housing Act loans would be made available immediately in communities where CMHC feels rental housing is needed. He estimated the yearly demands for loans will amount to about $15,000,000.

Because loans for this purpose are not as easily obtained in smaller communities, the works minister said sub-standard housing or "shanty-town" developments were springing up on the fringe areas of many communities.

City Council Rejects Empress Bid for Sign

The Empress Hotel, of all places, was cited for poor taste in advertising signs during yesterday's city council meeting.

Council turned down an application for an addition to the illuminated sign advertising the Empress motor lodge after Ald. J. L. W. McLean said the whole thing should be replaced by "something more tasteful."

Saanich prosecutor Kenneth Murphy has been given the temporary post of city prosecutor for January and February at a salary of $1,200 a month. The city post was vacated by Angus Smith.

The city will seek a court decision on payments for property expropriated on the site of the View Street civic parking garage.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told council that planners can meet a Jan. 31 deadline requested by developers of a proposed Sherwood Forest amusement park on Gorge Road. When planning studies connected with the new zoning regulations are completed, council is expected to give final approval to the scheme.

The mayor said he has been informed that motel owners in the area are in favor of the project.

Lawyer Joseph McKenna will have an opportunity to present his case to council when an application on behalf of the Franciscan Order for tax exemption on their chapel at 1076 Joan Crescent is brought up for further discussion.

The advisory planning commission yesterday recommended the application should be rejected on the grounds that the building is primarily a residence rather than a church. Council postponed its decision.

Kennel Club Elects Victorian

Mrs. J. W. Anderson of Victoria has been elected a director of the Canadian Kennel Club for 1963, it was announced from Toronto yesterday.

Also elected to office in the Canada-wide mail ballot were V. W. Williams, Vancouver, president; Jack C. Anderson, Calgary, and Tom Wells, North Surrey, vice-presidents; Robert L. MacKillop, Edmonton, Mrs. J. Gove, Winnipeg, and William Dawson, Prince Albert, Sask., directors.

Glassco Group Named

OTTAWA (CP) — George Davidson, deputy minister of citizenship, has been appointed to head a group of civil servants implementing the Glassco commission's recommendations for reorganization of government services, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons Thursday.

Dr. Davidson will work with Senator Wallace McCutcheon, minister without portfolio who earlier was named the minister responsible for studying the Glassco recommendations and putting them into effect.

Bearded Youth Kills Girl

NOVI, Mich. (AP)—A curly haired youth with a small goatee capped a night of beer drinking by invading a neighbor's home Thursday, terrorizing the family and beating a 13-year-old daughter to death with a claw hammer.

He also kidnapped the mother whom he forced to disrobe, and drove her several miles to Dearborn where he set her free before walking into Dearborn police headquarters with the hammer saying: "I just killed two people."

Only one was dead—Shirley Husted, daughter of school bus driver Wesley Husted, 40. Both the father and the mother, Rita, 33, had been beaten.

James G. Gostlin, 20, of Garden City, Mich., admitted in a statement. Oakland County authorities said, that he had gone on the rampage after a night of drinking.

Summit Report

By JOHN M. NIGHTOWER

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to have agreed tentatively to supply Polaris missiles to Britain provided an "Independent British striking force eventually becomes part of the North Atlantic alliance nuclear deterrent. The Polaris would take the place of the disputed Skybolt.

Diplomatic informants said Thursday those are the main elements of an accord hammered out in 14 hours or more of the Nassau little summit conference, which will run into an additional day today.

HIGHLY PLEASED

Prime Minister Macmillan was represented as highly pleased with the solution of a dispute that has frayed U.S.-British relations.

Macmillan has called a cabinet meeting in London today to consider the proposed deal and advise him on it.

Macmillan was represented as pleased with Kennedy's explanation of the problems of Skybolt development by contrast with the well-proved Polaris.

BETTER MISSILE
The Polaris is a mobile missile capable of being fired from submarines or other moving platforms, and its range, 1,800 miles.

In effect, the British position now is that Macmillan has the opportunity to obtain from the United States a much better missile than the Skybolt program could have produced.

Diefenbaker Off Today For Nassau

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker leaves for Nassau this morning for talks on "international affairs and the Common Market" with British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is deemed to be a third wheel at the closing hour of the Kennedy-Macmillan conference, will fly to the Bahamas with his wife and a small group of officials on a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

They will drive to Ball Hall, the posh Nassau home of Mrs. W. R. Holt of Montreal and Mr. Macmillan's official residence during the conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker will lunch and enjoy what he called "informal talks" with Kennedy and Macmillan before his portion of the discussion begins.

Backward Mileage

DICKINSON, N.D. (UPI)—A policeman saw a 15-year-old girl back up her car on a state highway, stop for a red light and continue backing up.

He said the girl told him she had put too many miles on the car and was trying to take them off before returning it to her parents.

Rocket Plane Tops Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X-15 rocket plane shot into space Thursday and returned safely from the highest altitude yet attempted with its big bottom fin removed.

Preliminary information indicated a top speed of 3,886 miles an hour and an altitude of 137,000 feet.

LOOK AHEAD
A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said it was the first time the X-15 had gone high enough and fast enough without the ventral fin to meet conditions future spacecraft will encounter re-entering the atmosphere.

At the controls was test pilot Joseph A. Walker, who has reached 246,700 feet and 4,104 miles an hour with the ventral fin in place.

MAKES IT ROLL
The large fin was designed to increase the stubby-winged Sky Dart's stability in atmospheric flights, but tends to cause it to roll in re-entry from extreme altitudes.

Thursday's flight was the seventh in a series to analyze the X-15's performance without the fin. Some of these have gone as high as 140,000 feet.

45,000 FEET
The flight started with the X-15 dropping from its B-52 carrier plane 45,000 feet over Mud Lake, Nev., 185 miles northeast of this desert research centre.

Deadly Day Air, Rail Crashes Kill 31

At least 31 persons are dead and another 60 were injured. In Guatemala, 18 died and 45 were injured when a speeding freight train roared into a standing passenger train.

In Florida, a Miami to New York passenger train crashed at 70 miles an hour into a truckload of oranges, wrecking the train and sending its two locomotives and 15 cars twisting along the rails. The lead locomotive and the truck caught fire.

At least three persons were killed and 15 were admitted to Okaloosa General Hospital, including a Montreal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Elliott.

Ten or 15 others were treated in hospital and released.

WITH FARMHOUSE

On the island of Okinawa, a U.S. air force KB-30 tanker plane crashed into an Okinawan farmhouse, exploding in flames and killing 11 persons—all seven American crewmen and four Okinawans. Seven other Okinawans from the devastated house were injured.

As the plane approached Kaneda air force base en route from Yokota air force base in Japan, it was waved away on its first landing try. As it came in for the second approach, one engine failed, the aircraft dipped, missed off a 35-foot power pole, and plunged into the house.

In Portland, Oregon, a U.S. National Guard jet fighter plane crashed in flames in suburban Parkrose, setting two houses afire. No one was reported killed.

Sheriff's deputies said the two men aboard the F-89 plane bailed out and were found a quarter-mile from the crash.

BURNED TO DEATH

In Brazil, finally, rescue workers reached the wreckage of a Brazilian airline Constellation deep in the Amazon jungles and found all 50 persons aboard burned to death.

Pan Air do Brasil, operators of the aircraft, said the plane crashed Dec. 14 approximately 25 miles from Manaus, its destination, about 800 miles up the Amazon River from Brazil's Atlantic coastline.

Dominicans Give Fiallo Early Lead

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Two of five presidential candidates fought for the lead last night in early returns from the Dominican Republic's first free elections since 1924.

The National Civic Union's Viriato Fiallo seized a 15,000-vote margin over Juan Bosch, candidate of the left-of-centre Dominican Revolutionary Party, in a see-saw battle that appeared to pit the voting strength of the capital against outlying provinces.

Adventists Tell Sons They Must Go Jan. 3

HOPE (CP)—The radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect, camped at a Seventh Day Adventists' site here, must leave by Jan. 3.

The Adventists delivered the ultimatum Thursday.

The Freedomites say, however, they have not found a new site but will leave even if they are forced to camp on the highway.

The camp has been the 1,300 Sons' home since Nov. 20 when the Adventists allowed them to use it after heavy rains forced them out of a village campsite.

Finishing Touches

Has Cuba Sealed Prisoner Deal?

HAVANA (UPI)—New York attorney James Donovan returned to Havana Thursday apparently to put the finishing touches on his deal with Premier Fidel Castro for the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Havana radio, a government transmitter, predicted the ransom talks between the two men would end "positively" at any moment. This impression was borne out by reports from New York that relatives of the prisoners in exile in New York were leaving for Miami to await their return.

AWAIT SUPPLIES

However, it did not seem likely any of the men will be released until Castro receives the first shipment of the $82,000,000 in food and medicine he demanded for their freedom.

Reports from Miami said a 10,000-ton freighter chartered by the American Red Cross to deliver the merchandise to Cuba, was in Port Everglades, Fla., and ready to load.

Reports from Washington said the ship would sail for Cuba tomorrow night or early Saturday.

New Bishop Installed

By JURGEN HESSE

Victoria's new Roman Catholic bishop, Most Rev. Remi Joseph De Roo, was installed in his diocese by Conductor-Archbishop Martin Johnson in a two-hour ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral last night.

For the many dignitaries and the congregation assembled Bishop De Roo had a strenuous delivered message:

"One of the greatest challenges which faces us today... is to work and pray and sacrifice for the day when society realizes man without God is not fully man."

PIONEERS

"We must remain pioneers... ready to dedicate our every effort to the survival of... lasting values—the spiritual," the bishop said.

Church and state, he said, are not meant to struggle against one another but to enhance and affect human society.

"It is not sufficient they (the laymen of the church) stand up and accept responsibility... but it is necessary they seek to develop spiritual culture," Bishop De Roo said.

WITH SOCIETY

Church is not against society, it is with society, he said. "To ignore the role of the church in society... is a form of self-debasement, of self-mutilation not far short of spiritual suicide."

Earlier in his address the bishop said:

"I experience a most profound joy at being here in your midst—home at last..."

COLORFUL

The bishop spoke after his installation by Conductor-Archbishop Johnson of Vancouver who represented Archbishop W. M. Duke, unable to attend because of illness.

The ceremony unfolded with the solemn and colorful ritual of the Roman Catholic Church. The procession of clergy and laity started at 7:30 p.m. at the bishop's residence, 740 View, into the cathedral.

Parliament Adjourns

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Patrick Kerlan, deputy governor-general, gave royal assent Thursday night to 13 bills, minutes before Parliament adjourned until Jan. 31. (See Page 22.)

The main measures that became law were a grant of $330,000,000 in interim supply to cover the government's day-to-day spending in January and acts setting up the Atlantic development board and a Crown corporation in charge of the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal.

Postal Truck Robbed

BOSTON (AP)—A U.S. mail truck was robbed of registered mail Thursday night by three men after the truck driver was tricked by a man wearing a carrier's uniform.

William F. White, chief postal inspector for New England, said the thieves stole letters $2,000 and $2,200 in cash.

The robbery occurred in the heavily-populated Dorchester district.

Driver John L. Sullivan, 65, told police he was pulling away from a sub-station when a man wearing a carrier's uniform approached.

"I took pity on him standing there in the cold and told him to hop in," Sullivan said. The temperature was about 10 above.

Sullivan said after he had driven about four blocks his passenger pulled a gun and ordered him to the side of the street.

Two other men jumped into the truck, Sullivan said, and three pouches of registered mail were taken.

The three drove away in a car.

Only Total of 500 Fund Still to Be Decided

Only the actual total of this year's 500 Fund cheques remains to be decided. Generous Victorians have made sure that the 500 Families most in need of assistance will not be forgotten.

Officials of The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund, have been forced to extend the final closing hour for 1962.

So many donations came in yesterday — $2,841.15 was entered in the records—that officials decided to wait for today's morning mail before officially closing the fund.

The amazing one-day outpouring of generosity boosted the fund to $12,902.78 when counting ended for the day Thursday.

And with many known

donations delayed by heavy Christmas mail, the total will go higher, possibly topping last year's record total.

So each cheque to the 500 impoverished families that Victoria wishes "Merry Christmas" through the fund should be at least $26.

One final event is still to take place for the benefit of the fund.

Victoria Gun Club holds its annual Christmas ham and turkey shoot at the Albert Head gun club grounds this Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 22 and 23.

Any and all shooters may take part in the day-long trap-shooting for Christmas food-stuffs.

First shots will be fired at 9 a.m. and continue to sundown.

Shooters will be matched by handicap and skill in the "squads" trying for each prize, and every "bag" means a boost for the 500 fund.

Despite the fact that the shoot won't be held until the fund is actually closed, the gun clubbers have decided to take a big chance.

They've donated a cheque for $400 to the fund already.

Part of money from proceeds of "Lucky Circle" turkey cards

still being sold in small stores and businesses throughout the area, and available at gun club grounds, Saturday and Sunday.

The rest will come from the turkey shoot at the club.

Club officials are taking a chance on a heavy turnout at the turkey shoot Saturday and Sunday to bring their contribution up to the $400 mark.

Latest list of donations on Page 2B.

Happy Wanderer Tours Valley

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Along with 50,000 cases of whisky from Glasgow, unloaded at Vancouver recently, a sprightly Englishman also arrived and paid a short visit to the Cowichan Valley when the freighter Pacific Envoy took on lumber at Chemainus.

Not very tall and sporting a fancy tartan jacket, John B. Addison reminds one of a Dickens character.

The 60-year-old confirmed bachelor and retired accountant of the British Railways is determined to see the world by freighting.

ON BANANA BOAT

As a member of the Ocean Travellers' Club, he began his enviable globe-trotting career on a banana boat bound for the Bahamas and upon his return from the American trip, he plans to see Egypt and North Africa.

Talkative and cheerful, John is the type who is never bored whether aboard ship, in a small west coast harbor, within view of the Golden Gate bridge or in the town of, Crewe in Cheshire where he makes his headquarters between trips.

Somewhat, his ventures are accompanied by an air of mystery. On the banana boat a murder was committed, casually assisted by sharks off the West Indies, and on the last journey the ship was delayed because a spinster passenger had died hours before the Pacific Envoy left Glasgow Nov. 8.

STORMY CROSSING

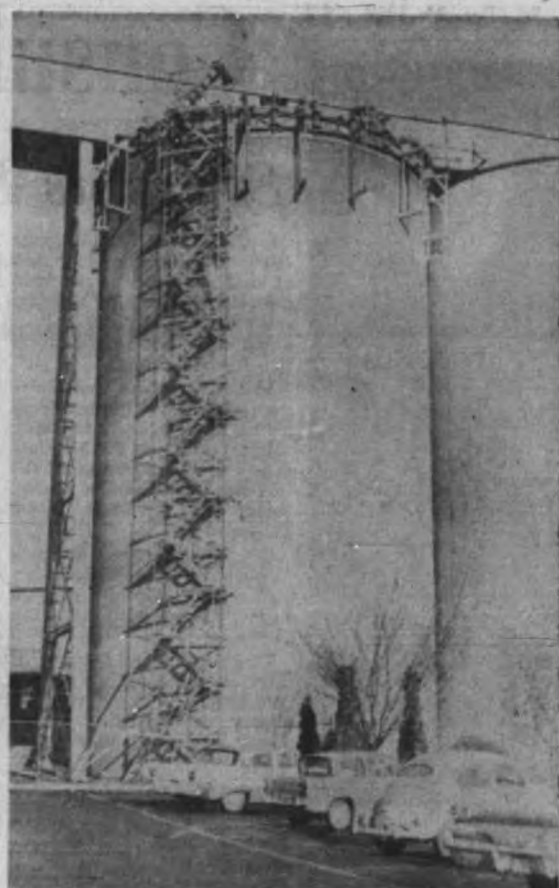

The merchantman, after a stormy crossing, had not entered the Panama Canal when the chief steward was found dead in his cabin.

He said at the beginning of this year he was told by a doctor he would only have a few more years to live because of a serious stomach ailment but an operation cured him. The Ocean Travellers Club, he said, is a group of people who love the ocean, who are fond of travel and who have plenty of time to do it.

MONEY A MUST

"Mind you," John said, "you have to have some money and much time to travel with a freighter, but it is much more fun than going with a luxury liner." When he left Chemainus after a four-hour stay with friends at Duncan, he was the only passenger aboard. At Portland, Oregon, the ship will tie up for Christmas. "It is a great life," John insists. "You get up in the morning and you feel the enormous freedom of the ocean in your fingertips. I love it and I suppose after a while this travelling becomes an obsession."

Towards the end of January the Pacific Envoy will slowly steam up the Thames and John will plan his next journey to the sunny Mediterranean.

Arcadian School Completes Term

DUNCAN — A four-day open house at the local Arcadian School for Retarded Children will end another term and the nine children and three teachers will start their Christmas holiday today.

Six years ago, through the initiative of a small group of people, the first classes were held at the United Church hall here and since 1960 the Cowichan School Board loaned the Zenith School to the local branch of the Retarded Children's Association.

PERMANENT STAFF

In two large rooms, seven regular children ranging from eight to 14 years of age and kindergarten pupils, four and five years old, are instructed by two permanent teachers, Mrs. Isabel Boyle and Mrs. John Wood, and a part-time instructor, Mrs. Sam Gorle. "Our job is demanding but very rewarding," said Mrs. Boyle.

She stated the children, whose degree of retardation varies, are taught academic subjects, handicrafts, basic traffic rules, social skills, muscle co-ordination and music. A member of the association's executive, Mrs. F. E. Drader, said, "We want these children to become useful members of society." She feels, as about three per cent of the entire population is retarded, special training is vital.

Mrs. Drader said new discoveries have replaced the old-fashioned conception of "just tolerating" the retarded child.

"As hard as it might be for some of the parents to accept the fact that their child is retarded, the youngsters can only be helped if they are acknowledged as human beings."

Mrs. Drader maintained European countries are at least 30 years ahead of Canada in this respect. She feels there are many more children in this district who should attend the school here but some parents don't seem able to overcome the outdated idea that it is shameful to have a retarded child.

She said these children, except for their lack of normal mentality, have exactly the same emotional reflexes and show as much affection as other youngsters.

Mrs. Drader added, "A retarded child is fortunate if it has understanding parents who accept it without reservation." She stated many local service clubs assist the local school and grants are received from the school board for its operation. Transportation alone costs $700 a year and is paid by the Duncan Lions Club.

NANAIMO — Lawrence E. McPadden of Nanaimo, who pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a washing machine from Ross' Electric Store was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Lionel Beavor-Potts yesterday.

A passing citizen was responsible for the apprehension when he noticed the washing machine being loaded into a vehicle, and took the licence number.

NANAIMO — The Salvation Army hampers, now being completed by members of the Nanaimo Lions Club, ladies of the Orange Lily Lodge, and girls of the Chinese Mission, will be distributed by volunteer members from many of the service groups.

The hampers have been filled partly from donations placed in the kettles, partly from the collection of canned goods and food parcels by students in city schools, and partly with the toys repaired by the Brannon Lake boys.

An estimated 400 hampers will be given out to Nanaimo's needy citizens.

SPEEDY GAME

Experiments in Canada have shown that the long-tailed duck Clangula hyemalis can fly at a ground speed of more than 70 miles an hour.

Club Lays Cavalcade Plans

NANAIMO — The Hub City Kiwanis Club had made final arrangements for a cavalcade of cars led by an RCMP car and Mayor Pete Maffeo to see the decorated houses taking part in the "Light Up For Christmas" competition.

Old-age pensioners will be provided with a free bus, so that they can join in the cavalcade.

The parade will start from the Simpson Street parking lot Dec. 26, at 1:30 p.m., but the route through the residential part of town has not yet been decided.

The Hub City Kiwanians would like one of their 1963 president of the Christmas Cheer Fund committee.

DUNCAN — No one was injured in two separate motor accidents Wednesday night.

The first two-car collision occurred at the intersection of the Trans-Canada Highway and Trunk Road involving Barry Roach of Duncan and Frank Kraft. Police estimated damage at $500. In the second mishap, a rear-end, two-car crash at the intersection of Bell MacKinnon Road and Phillips, damage was $1,000 and drivers were Florence Mohns and Donald MacGregor, both of Duncan.

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Lions and the Gyro Club have joined forces to put on one of the most successful children's Christmas parties of the season. About 500 children attended the skating party at the arena on Wednesday afternoon, and also enjoyed the candy and ice cream. The celebration is part of the "Light Up for Christmas" campaign projects.

With this in view, they are planning to meet with civic authorities for discussion on the subject. They think the beach could be made suitable for swimming, and construction of the sea wall be continued.

NANAIMO — A cheque for $673.22 was presented by president Joe Milino of the Associated Canadian Travellers, Nanaimo branch, to Cecil Magrath, president of the Nanaimo branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. The money will be used to provide a bursary for physiotherapy students, and help towards the replacement of the present "Bluebird" car with a new one in 1963.

DUNCAN — The Boxing Day dance at the B & K plant south of Duncan will wind up the local Jaycees' celebrations sponsored for Duncan's 50th birthday. The dance will start at 9 p.m. Other events the Duncan Jaycees sponsored throughout the past year were a fall parade and the erection of a 50-foot Christmas tree — one foot for every year — at the local railroad station. The Jaycee meeting will be held Jan. 9.

NANAIMO — The central Christmas Cheer Fund has given out $1,500 worth of scrip, but only has contributions of $85 on hand. An urgent appeal for donations has been sent out by Mrs. Teresa Murdoch.

Bell Peals

Hush Greeted Bishop

The new Roman Catholic bishop of Victoria was 10 minutes late in arriving, but when he drew up in a huge grey limousine an expectant hush fell over the 300 people gathered to greet him outside the bishop's residence on View Street.

A single bell pealed from St. Andrew's Cathedral and at 3:10 p.m. yesterday His Excellency, Most Rev. Remi Joseph De Roo (pronounced De Rowe) stepped lightly from the car.

He was closely followed by Vancouver Coadjutor Archbishop Martin Johnston.

FRIENDS WAITING
Fifty-four priests of the Victoria diocese were waiting for that moment. With happy smiles on their faces, they stepped out on the small porch, respectfully waiting their turn to greet their new bishop.

Girls and boys from three Roman Catholic schools sang in greeting.

RING KINDED

Up on the porch again, Bishop De Roo's ring was kissed by about two dozen kneeling priests who crowded around him.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes received Bishop De Roo for 25 minutes during the afternoon at Government House.

'VERY HUMAN'

"He is very charming, very human, a very understanding gentleman who I'm sure will lend inspiration to all of his faith in the Victoria diocese," said the lieutenant-governor after the bishop's party had left to attend a clergy dinner at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Part of the new bishop's family came with him to the city to witness his installation last night.

FAMILY

They were the bishop's father, Raymond De Roo of St. Boniface, a brother, Rev. Cyril De Roo of Winnipeg, and two sisters, Sister Mary Raymond and Mrs. Stanley Martinez and her husband.

The bishop came from Vancouver aboard the ferry City of Victoria where four state-rooms had been reserved for the party.

Four Victoria limousines picked up the bishop and his

Fine Farm Safe

The show farm of the Saanich Peninsula, Woodwyn Farm, has been taken off the real estate market, Mrs. Ruth Woodward told the Colonist last night.

Civic officials and planners breathed a sigh of relief at news that the 285-acre estate will not be sold for subdivision. The estate of the late Hon. W. C. Woodward, former lieutenant-governor of B.C., was on the market for more than a year with a price tag of $150,000.

'NICEST PRESENT'

Removal of the listing in "the nicest Christmas present we have had yet in Central Saanich," said a jubilant Mrs. R. Gordon Lee.

Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said, "I am sure the board will be pleased that this fine piece of property is safe for some time longer."

Mrs. Woodward earlier had planned to move to the mainland if a buyer was found for the show farm where British royalty was entertained during visits to British Columbia.

"It was my home, my husband and I made it. I've lived here for 20 years. I've gotten attached to it. I will be quite happy here," she said last night.

"It will be safe from subdivision as long as I am alive, and if taxes don't go up too far. If they hold the tax line where it is, I will be here a long time."

Reeve Lee said, "I don't think she needs to worry about the taxes. We try to keep them down, out here."

ONLY REASON

The estate, on the West Saanich Road south of Mt. Newton Cross Road, went on the market in the first place because of rising taxes, said Mrs. Woodward.

"I would hate to see it cut up, but that is the only thing anyone could buy it for," she said.

The farm is known across Canada for its prize Aberdeen Angus beef cattle. There are 100 of the black animals grazing on the green pastureland bordering Hagan Creek in Central Saanich. They are raised primarily for breeding stock.

SMALL PLOTS

Officials expressed concern recently that the farm was being advertised on the market for its "tremendous subdivision possibilities." They feared that a buyer might subdivide it into six-acre plots for sale as small farms.

The farm is "one of the finest examples of rural Saanich Peninsula," and there is constant "pressure for subdivision and development" of the rural parts of the peninsula, said the CRPB director.

PROPER AREA

"The Capital Region Planning Board is always advocating that development and subdivision be encouraged in the proper areas close to existing communities."

"In the Saanich Peninsula, this means Sidney and Brentwood—it does not mean Woodwyn Farm. We are not opposed to development, but we try to avoid sprawl which is uneconomical to municipalities and individuals," Mr. Roberts said.

Scion of Noted Family New County Court Judge

A Victoria lawyer whose family has been associated with law in Victoria for more than 100 years, Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, yesterday was appointed judge of county court here.

Appointment of Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake to succeed retiring Judge J. B. Clearhue, was announced by Justice Minister Donald Fleming.

Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake's latest legal partnership here was as a member of the firm of Munro, Drake, Wootton, Patterson and Macdonald. He is prominently associated with various social and civic activities in Victoria.

'GOOD WILL'

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said of the appointment: "Marvelous. I am sure Mr. Drake will add lustre to county court—I am sure he will have the good will of members of the bar."

"Opportunity for all young and active members of the bar to reach the bench, which is a very trying job, should deserve the active support of the bar. The whole concept deserves encouragement."

NOTED FAMILY

The new county court judge is the grandson of Montague William Tyrwhitt-Drake, who came to Victoria from England in 1859 and served here as attorney-general and judge of the Supreme Court of B.C.

He is the son of the late Brian H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who was Supreme Court registrar from the turn of the century to 1937.

Siamese All Wound Up

A Siamese cat named Pywacket collected an early Christmas present for himself Wednesday night. He came home with a wrist watch around his neck.

"When he returned home around midnight he had the expansion bracelet and watch around his neck," said Mrs. Fraser.

"It didn't seem to bother him and we didn't notice it at first," she said. "But when my husband picked him up he saw it and thought at first it was a fancy cat collar."

"It's a good watch," she said, "but nobody has come to claim it yet. Someone must have put it around his neck as a joke and didn't get a chance to take it off before he ran away. He must have been a fair distance from home when it happened, because most of the neighbors know him. "He's quite a friendly cat," said Mrs. Fraser. "He will go and visit wherever he finds a door open; he's not too particular." The Frasers are still trying to find the owner.

Alberni Bingo Raided

ALBERNI—RCMP walked into a bingo game here Wednesday evening and closed down the show.

The "raid" on Alberni Athletic Association's game was featured by extreme politeness on the part of the police officers and the orderly dispersal of approximately 180 guests.

CHARGES?

Cpl. R. L. Purdy of Alberni detachment said Thursday that charges will probably be laid under the Gaming Act.

One officer entered the hall and told the players that he was sorry to interrupt their game.

He indicated that closure of the game was part of an investigation and asked the people present to leave by the door where another officer stood to take some of the names and addresses.

SECOND EXIT

A large number of the men and women were permitted to leave by another door to accelerate the clearing of the hall.

Bingo games have been a means of fund-raising for the AAA's hall maintenance, debt retirement and juvenile athletic program for many years.

They were held regularly each Wednesday night until they were interrupted briefly when announcement was made last summer that scheduled games were not to be permitted to operate.

NANAIMO—Nanaimo district school board chairman Wladie Manion has denied emphatically at a board meeting that the local board had done anything improper in the handling of the December meeting in Nanaimo concerning community colleges.

Charges had been made by two Courtenay delegates, trustees Stan Rowe and Ben Hughes, that representatives from other school districts had not certain data available, because the Nanaimo board had not given them previous notification of the type of information which would be required.

Mr. Manion stated "when I read of the feelings of the Courtenay trustees, I called the chairman of the Courtenay school board and explained to him that Nanaimo had prepared no brief.

"After Dr. Macdonald had agreed to come to Nanaimo, he sent us a letter outlining some of the questions to which he would like answers. We did not have time to circulate copies of the letter to island boards, but if we had the answers to some of the questions at our fingertips, it was because of the records kept by senior high school principal, J. B. Litch and night school director, W. G. Tippet, also at the meeting.

NOT UNFAIR

"The other school boards—apart from Courtenay—did not feel we had been unfair to them."

The records kept by Mr. Tippet and Mr. Litch gave statistics on the number of Nanaimo high school students graduating from university; the number of night school students attending various classes and other facts.

AVAILABLE

This information was made available to Dr. John Macdonald, president of UBC when he held a meeting to discuss the establishment of regional colleges with Upper Island school boards representatives on Dec. 6 in Nanaimo.

Mr. Manion outlined the events leading to the joint discussion on Dec. 6, saying that such great interest was shown in the public meeting held in November concerning the question of community colleges generally, that a permanent committee had been formed to gather information on the subject.

MEMBERS
Members of the committee are present trustees Joe Shook and Harold Godfrey and former trustees Murphy and Dr. Roy MacMillan.

No other local meetings have been held.

Mr. Manion stated "we never said that Nanaimo should be the spot where a regional college should be located. We have not investigated long enough. The Nanaimo school board's position is not a selfish one."

LOGICAL PLACE
Courtenay school board representatives suggest that Qualicum is the logical place for a regional college, because of its more advantageous central position in the Upper Island area.

Custom Renewed

Mayor R. B. Wilson's door will be open to all civic employees between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. today, renewing an old city hall custom at Christmas after a lapse of 10 years.

"All members of both inside and outside staffs are welcome to drop in and say hello," the mayor said yesterday. Other members of city council will be on hand.

The custom was dropped when Mayor Claude Harrison took office in 1952 and was renewed only this year.

Cat-Napper Appears Laundry Staff Panics

By Ted Shackelford

CAT'S PYJAMAS: We hear a city laundry had to send two female employees home early the other day—suffering from shock. The laundry supplies bags to customers to put their dirty linen in and the bags and a truck travels around the area, collecting them. So far so good, but when the two women were emptying one particular bag they noticed some of the clothes moving.

PANIC: It turned out to be the family cat which had picked the bag for a cozy snooze.

The answer is that the brewery does still sound the four signals but the whistle used is a little quieter than the one which blows the city's never-enforced curfew for children at 9:30 p.m.

CLUB DATE: Victoria ten pinners Bert Binsy is puzzled by something that happened over the weekend. He booked Grace Turkey's puppet show for a private party in the Sirocco Club Dec. 16, but somehow Grace got her dates mixed and turned up on the 15th. She was greeted at the door by a man who was looking for "the other entertainers" and did her show as left. When she didn't appear at the Sirocco for the Dec. 16 party, Bert ran around town looking for her to straighten it out. Now he's wondering who was the missing entertainer Grace accidentally replaced Dec. 15.

Appointment Of Young Confirmed

City council yesterday, as expected, confirmed the appointment of Dennis Young, 39, as city manager to succeed C. C. Wyatt, who retires next July.

Following the closed committee meeting at which the decision was taken, Mayor R. B. Wilson said "council has agreed to all but one of the 'standard requirements' set out by Mr. Young in his letter of acceptance."

Still to be settled is the matter of salary differential between city manager and various department heads at city hall. The mayor said council decided not to approve the original suggestion made by Mr. Young in this regard, but would discuss the matter further.

Mr. Young this week resigned his job as treasurer and commissioner of finance for the city of Hamilton. He had held the post for two years, since leaving Victoria where he served as city comptroller-treasurer.

Summit Report

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to have agreed tentatively to supply Polaris missiles to Britain provided an independent British striking force eventually becomes part of the North Atlantic alliance nuclear deterrent. The Polaris would take the place of the disputed Skybolt.

Diplomatic informants said Thursday these are the main elements of an accord hammered out in 14 hours or more of the Nassau little summit conference, which will run into an additional day today.

HIGHLY PLEASED

Prime Minister Macmillan was represented as highly pleased with the solution of a dispute that has frayed U.S.-British relations.

Macmillan has called a cabinet meeting in London today to consider the proposed deal and advise him on it.

Macmillan was represented as pleased with Kennedy's explanation of the problems of Skybolt development by contrast with the well-proved Polaris.

BETTER MISSILE

The Polaris is a mobile missile capable of being fired from submarines or other moving platforms, and its range is 1,800 miles.

In effect, the British position now is that Macmillan has the opportunity to obtain from the United States a much better missile than the Skybolt program could have produced.

Diefenbaker Off Today For Nassau

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker leaves for Nassau this morning for talks on "international affairs and the Common Market" with British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is deemed to be a third wheel at the closing hour of the Kennedy-Macmillan conference, will fly to the Bahamas with his wife and a small group of officials on a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

They will drive to Ball Hall, the posh Nassau home of Mrs. W. R. Holt of Montreal and Mr. Macmillan's official residence during the conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker will lunch and enjoy what he called "informal talks" with Kennedy and Macmillan before his portion of the discussion begins.

Backing Up Alibi

DICKINSON, N.D. (UPI)—A policeman saw a 15-year-old girl back up her car on a state highway, stop for a red light and continue backing up.

He said the girl told him she had put too many miles on the car and was trying to take them off before returning it to her parents.

Rocket Plane Tops Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X-15 rocket plane shot into space Thursday and returned safely from the highest altitude yet attempted with its big bottom fin removed.

Preliminary information indicated a top speed of 3,885 miles an hour and an altitude of 157,000 feet.

LOOK AHEAD

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said it was the first time the X-15 had gone high enough and fast enough without the ventral fin to meet conditions for future spacecraft will encounter re-entering the atmosphere.

At the controls was test pilot Joseph A. Walker, who has reached 245,700 feet and 4,104 miles an hour with the ventral fin in place.

MAKES IT ROLL

The large fin was designed to increase the stubby-winged Sky Dart's stability in atmospheric flights, but tends to cause it to roll in re-entry from extreme altitudes.

Thursday's flight was the seventh in a series to analyze the X-15's performance without the fin. Some of these have gone as high as 140,000 feet.

45,000 FEET

The flight started with the X-15 dropping away from its B-52 carrier plane 45,000 feet over Mud Lake, Nev., 185 miles northeast of this desert research centre.

The Church in Our Time

How Much Influence Is Felt?

By JURGEN HESSE
Fifth of a Series

Clergymen and laymen in Victoria are divided over the degree of influence exerted by churches in the Canada of 1962.

Here is a sample of opinions:

● "All our activities are character-building," says Rev. Laura Butler of Metropolitan United Church, speaking for herself and six United ministers she interviewed.

● "Churches exert a tremendous influence, but not as a pressure group," says Rev. J. L. W. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

● "The influence lessens, there's a relaxation," says Rev. R. D. Holmes, Central Baptist Church.

● "The Catholic Church is concerned primarily with the spiritual. In this sphere its influence is very great throughout Canada," says Rev. Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Cathedral, who for nine months administered the affairs of the diocese.

● "They are influential in a material, political and spiritual way, and all churches are combatting a wave of materialism," says Rev. William Hills of St. George the Martyr Anglican Church.

● "The church today is more influential than ever on progress and on philosophy," says deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, an elder of First United Church for 16 years.

● "On moral problems the churches take an influence," says Dr. Roy Watson of Victoria University, a sociologist and ardent proponent of the Student Christian Movement.

● "One of the dangers of the church's influence is that children should make intellectual decisions of their own," says Prof. Tony Emery of Victoria University, a teacher of history and self-professed agnostic.

● "There is no doubt that the federal government has to take into consideration the attitude of the Roman Catholic church," says Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization.

● "The influence of the churches in Canada still carries a great deal of weight," says Dr. Marian Sherman, a scientific humanist, 2801 Seaview Road.

It emerges very clearly from these answers that almost everyone asked had a different outlook on (a) the extent of the church's influence and (b)

Parliament Adjourns

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy governor-general, gave royal assent Thursday night to 13 bills, minutes before Parliament adjourned until Jan. 21. (See Page 28.)

The main measures that became law were a grant of $330,000,000 in interim supply to cover the government's day-to-day spending in January and acts setting up the Atlantic development board and a Crown corporation in charge of the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal.

Postal Truck Robbed

BOSTON (AP)—A U.S. mail truck was robbed of registered mail Thursday night by three men after the truck driver was tricked by a man wearing a carrier's uniform.

William F. White, chief postal inspector for New England, said the thieves stole between $2,000 and $2,200 in cash.

The robbery occurred in the heavily-populated Dorchester district.

Driver John L. Sullivan, 65, told police he was pulling away from a sub-station when a man wearing a carrier's uniform approached.

"I took pity on him standing there in the cold and told him to hop in," Sullivan said. The temperature was about 10 above.

Sullivan said after he had driven about four blocks his passenger pulled a gun and ordered him to the side of the street.

Two other men jumped into the truck, Sullivan said, and three pouches of registered mail were taken.

The three drove away in a car.

New Bishop Installed

By JURGEN HESSE

Victoria's new Roman Catholic bishop, Most Rev. Remi Joseph De Roo, was installed in his diocese by Coadjutor-Archbishop Martin Johnson in a two-hour ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral last night.

For the many dignitaries and the congregation assembled, Bishop De Roo had a sternly delivered message:

Staying In

Going Out

Recommended for parole if he can get job but with none offered—Kansas City Fat (few know his real name: George O. Jones) will spend his 28th Christmas in Oklahoma State Prison. He was sentenced to life in 1934 after a 15-cent holdup.

After spending 47 years behind bars for 1915 slaying of Chicago housewife and her son, William Russell Peitick, 69, will be paroled at Joliet, Ill., shortly. He has never ridden in automobile or airplane, nor seen skyscraper. (AP Photofax.)

"One of the greatest challenges which faces us today... is to work and pray and sacrifice for the day when society realizes man without God is not fully man."

PIONEERS

"We must remain pioneers... ready to dedicate our every effort to the survival of... lasting values—the spiritual," the bishop said.

Church and state, he said, are not meant to struggle against one another but to enhance and affect human society.

"It is not sufficient if the laymen of the church stand up and accept responsibility... but it is necessary they seek to develop spiritual culture," Bishop De Roo said.

WITH SOCIETY

Church is not against society. It is with society, he said. "To ignore the role of the church in society... is a form of self-debasement, of self-mutilation not far short of spiritual suicide."

Earlier in his address the bishop said:

"I experience a most profound joy at being here in your midst—home at last..."

COLORFUL

The bishop spoke after his installation by Coadjutor-Archbishop Johnson of Vancouver.

W. M. Duke, unable to attend because of illness.

GLOBAL CRASH TOLL 31

A bloody series of train wrecks and aircraft crashes yesterday left a trail of death, injury and ruin in several parts of the world.

At least 31 persons are dead and another 60 were injured.

In Guatemala, 18 died and 45 were injured when a speeding freight train roared into a standing passenger train.

In Florida, a Miami to New York passenger train crashed at 70 miles an hour into a truckload of oranges, wrecking the train and sending its two locomotives and 15 cars twisting along the rails. The lead locomotive and the truck caught fire.

At least three persons were killed and 15 were admitted to Okeechobee General Hospital, including a Montreal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Elliott.

Ten or 15 others were treated in hospital and released.

HITS FARMHOUSE

On the island of Okinawa, a U.S. air force KB-50 tanker plane crashed into an Okinawan farmhouse, exploding into flames and killing 11 persons—all seven American crewmen and four Okinawans. Seven other Okinawans from the devastated house were injured.

As the plane approached Kanadaira air force base en route from Yokota, air force base in Japan, it was waved away on its first landing try. As it came in for the second approach, one engine failed, the aircraft dipped, sliced off a 35-foot power pole, and plunged into the house.

In Portland, Oregon, a U.S. National Guard jet fighter plane crashed in flames in suburban Parkrose, setting two houses afire. No one was reported killed.

Sheriff's deputies said the two men aboard the F-89 plane bailed out and were found a quarter-mile from the crash.

The plane smashed between the houses, but everyone inside escaped the flames.

BURNED TO DEATH

In Brazil, finally, rescue workers reached the wreckage of a Brazilian airline Constellation deep in the Amazon jungle and found all 50 persons aboard burned to death.

Pan Air do Brasil, operators of the aircraft, said the plane crashed Dec. 14 approximately 23 miles from Manaus, its destination, about 800 miles up the Amazon River from Brazil's Atlantic coastline.

Dominicans Give Fiallo Early Lead

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Two of five presidential candidates fought for the lead last night in early returns from the Dominican Republic's first free elections since 1924.

The Adventists delivered the ultimatum Thursday.

The Freedomsites say, however, they have not found a new site but will leave even if they are forced to camp on the highway.

The camp has been the 1,300 Sons' home since Nov. 20 when the Adventists allowed them to use it after heavy rains forced them out of a village campsite.

Finishing Touches

Has Cuba Sealed Prisoner Deal?

HAVANA (UPI)—New York attorney James Donovan returned to Havana Thursday apparently to put the finishing touches on his deal with Premier Fidel Castro for the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Havana radio, a government transmitter, predicted the random talks between the two men would end "positively" at any moment. This impression was borne out by reports from New York that relatives of the prisoners in exile in New York were leaving for Miami to await their return.

However, it did not seem likely any of the men will be released until Castro receives the first shipment of the $22,000,000 in food and medicines he demanded for their freedom. (See picture, Page 14.)

Reports from Miami cited a 10,000-ton freighter chartered by the American Red Cross to deliver the merchandise to Cuba, was in Port Everglades, Fla., and ready to load.

Reports from Washington said the ship would sail for Cuba tomorrow night or early Saturday.

Only Total of 500 Fund Still to Be Decided

Only the actual total of this year's 500 Fund cheques remains to be decided. Generous Victorians have made sure that the 500 families most in need of assistance will not be forgotten.

Officials of The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund have been forced to extend the final closing hour for 1962.

So many donations came in yesterday—$2,834.18 was entered in the records—that officials decided to wait for today's morning mail before officially closing the fund.

The amazing one-day outpouring of generosity boosted the fund to $12,902.78 when counting ended for the day Thursday.

And with many known donations delayed by heavy Christmas mail, the total will go higher, possibly topping last year's record total.

So each cheque to the 500 impoverished families that Victoria wishes "Merry Christmas" through the fund should be at least $36.

One final event is still to take place for the benefit of the fund.

Victoria Gun Club holds its annual Christmas ham and turkey shoot at the Albert Head gun club grounds this Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 22 and 23.

Any and all shooters may take part in the day-long trap-shooting for Christmas food-stuffs.

First shots will be fired at 9 a.m. and continue to sunset.

Shooters will be matched by handicap and skill in the "squads" trying for each prize, and every "bang" means a boost for the 500 fund.

Despite the fact that the shoot won't be held until the fund is actually closed, the gun clubbers have decided to take a big chance.

They've donated a cheque for $400 to the fund already.

Part comes from proceeds of "Lucky Circle" turkey cards

still being sold in small stores and businesses throughout the area, and available at gun club grounds, Saturday and Sunday.

The rest will come from the turkey shoot at the club.

Club officials are taking a chance on a heavy turnout at the turkey shoot Saturday and Sunday to bring their contribution up to the $400 mark. Latest list of donations on Page 28.
